

COOLIDGE IS INAUGURATED PRESIDENT

EXECUTIVE URGES AMERICAN ENTRY IN WORLD COURT

CHARLES G. DAWES SWORN IN AS THIRTIETH VICE-PRESIDENT OF U. S.

President Declares Most Important Problem Is To Maintain Advantages We Possess—Serves Notice On Bolters.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

Washington, March 4.—"Our most important problem is NOT to secure new advantages, but to maintain those we already possess."

With this sage observation concerning the task at hand, Calvin Coolidge assumed the Presidency of the United States today, and in one of the shortest, simplest inaugural addresses on record pledged himself to continue for four years the policies he has already inaugurated.

These policies he set forth in his brief address as follows:

FOREIGN POLICIES

Abroad—A continuation of American helpfulness and co-operation where deserved; aloofness from the political quarrels and jealousies of the Old World; with America setting a moral example for the world in moderate armament, and displaying a willingness always to substitute the rule of reason for the rule of force.

At home—A continuation of the rigid economy in government that already has marked his administration; further tax reduction; encouragement to American business; enforcement of laws; party responsibility in government; and non-interference by the Government in legitimate private business.

Those who came to the wind-swept Plaza of the Capitol today expecting to see "a new Coolidge" stepping into the Presidency in his own right, and accompanying it with a glittering speech setting forth new policies and new goals, were not accorded any such spectacle.

SHOWED CALMNESS

With the same calmness that has ever marked his official acts, Mr. Coolidge simply interpreted the November election as a national endorsement of his administration and

BATTLE ON BROWN GAS TAX BILL WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK

No Important Measures Before Assembly

Columbus, O., March 4.—The legislative mill will begin today its steady grind of legislation, undisturbed by any measures of outstanding importance.

Long sessions are scheduled in both houses this afternoon to permit the leaders to clear the calendars.

Although the Brown gas tax bill, one of the storm centers in the present session, is scheduled to appear on the senate calendar for passage this afternoon, the final battle on the measure is to be deferred until next week, Majority Leader Gardner said today.

Advocates of the gas tax said they had high hopes the measure will ultimately be whipped into shape which will be agreeable to the house before its final passage by the senate.

The Collier city home rule bill is expected to be sent to Governor Donahay today, after it is signed in the senate by president protom Gardner, presiding during the absence of Lieutenant Governor Lewis who is attending the inaugural ceremonies in Washington.

MARION ARTIST IS WINNER OF PLACE IN PITTSBURGH SALON

Photographer Is Granted Distinguished Honor With Picture

Marion, O., March 4.—A place on the lists of the twelfth annual Pittsburgh salon pictorial photography has been awarded Walter W. Davis, of Marion, by the jury of selection for photographic study made of a Marion girl—Miss Mary McAllister. A place on this list is said to be the highest honor obtainable in the realm of American photography. The only salon in the world which rates above that of Pittsburgh, is the London salon, London, England.

Miss McAllister, the subject, is a graduate of Harding High School, class of 1924. Last year she was elected May Queen, the highest beauty honor bestowed by the local school.

SIXTY KILLED

Rheinsdorf, Anholt, Germany, Mar. 4.—Sixty workers were killed today and many injured in an explosion which wrecked a factory where explosives were manufactured.

MAD AT HIMSELF

Pomeroy, March 4.—Dale Cottrell, 55, farmer, living at Point Rock, was jailed here on charges of being drunk, carrying a revolver and with shooting to wound. It was claimed Cottrell went into a small country store, near here, that a scrap resulted and that, during the excitement, he shot himself in a leg.

NEW DISPOSAL PLANT

Elyria, March 4.—Preparatory to constructing a disposal plant ordered by the state, a survey of this city's sanitary and storm water sewer systems is being made. It is estimated that the new sewer and sewage system will cost $500,000.

TROUBLE FOR NOTHING

Defiance, March 4.—Returning from Long Beach, Calif., with F. R. McFarland, 23, accused of passing bad checks, Sheriff Miller locked his prisoner in the county jail from which he escaped on July 23, 1922, by digging through the concrete floor.

Washington, March 4.—Inauguration day dawned fair and cold in Washington.

A misty sun hung over the eastern horizon, but there was a hint of rain in the air from the rapidly rising temperature. The weather forecaster "hoped" there would be no rain, until the ceremonies incident to inducting President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes into office, are completed, but he was not certain.

A moderate breeze prevailed, just strong enough to keep the flags that flew from public buildings flapping lazily.

GENERAL X IS DISCLOSED AS ARMY OFFICIAL

Woman In Suit Startles British With Name of Dead Official

London, March 4.—Identity of the famous soldier named as "General X" was disclosed today.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun testified that he was General Sir John Cowan, quartermaster general of the British army during the world war.

The declaration was as startling to high army and social circles as her original charge against her husband that his promotion was gained from General X at the cost of the greatest sacrifice on the wife's part with her husband's knowledge and approval.

Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her former husband who has married again since their divorce, for money she claimed was advanced by her and for alleged breach of agreement that he would pay her a flat sum in lieu of alimony.

Colonel Dennistoun is now the husband of the former Lady Carnarvon, whose first husband started the house of King Tutankhamen's tomb. He is the stepfather of the present Countess Carnarvon, formerly Catherine Wendell of New York.

General Sir John Cowan, named by Mrs. Dennistoun as the famous soldier from whom she sought favor for her husband, was responsible for the commissariat of the British army in the world war. He was credited with great service, but was penniless when he died in 1921 and his widow was forced to sell his medals in her efforts to raise funds.

EXTRA LEAF IN WHITE HOUSE TABLE

Family Party Gathers for Cal's Inaugural Ceremonies

Washington, March 4.—They had to put an extra leaf in the White House breakfast table this morning. There was quite a family party. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, of course, soon to drive a mile up Pennsylvania Avenue to sign a four year lease on the old John Adams homestead on the Potomac. Then there was Colonel John C. Coolidge of Plymouth, Vt., the president's father; Mrs. Almira Goodhue, of Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Coolidge's mother; John Coolidge, the President's only son; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stearns of Boston and a few other intimate friends.

This was a proud day for Frank W. Stearns, the man who is credited with "discovering" Calvin Coolidge and pushing him along the hard road to political success and national eminence. Reports that the President was "off of" Stearns because he confirmed the "hobby horse" story were apparently discredited by the Bostonian's presence at the White House today.

FOREIGN LOAN BAN LEAVES JAPAN OUT OF MONEY MARKET

Tentative Loans That Involve Millions Will Now Be Dropped

Tokio, March 4.—Japan today was virtually out of the international money market as a result of the recent government ban against foreign loans.

The departure of finance has warned private firms that the government does not approve of their borrowing abroad.

As a result of this policy it is expected that negotiations with American and European financiers for loans involving millions will immediately be dropped.

Eight In Honolulu Hospital—Two Are Injured Seriously

Honolulu, March 4.—Eight soldiers were in the hospital at Fort Schofield near here today as a result of an explosion of artillery shells which they were loading at the fort yesterday.

Those seriously injured were Privates John Mullen of Philadelphia, Leon Scano, of Steubenville, O., and Corporal Alfred Snyder, of Buffalo.

BORGLUM INDICTED ON THREE COUNTS BY GEORGIA JURY

Famous Sculptor Charged With Felony In One True Bill

Decatur, Ga., March 4.—Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor today was indicted by the De Kalb County Grand Jury on three counts, charging him with malicious mischief and larceny from a house, following his destruction of working models for the confederate memorial he had been carving on Stone Mountain near here.

Only one of the offenses—that of larceny, from a house—is a felony under Georgia law.

SUGAR CAMPS OPEN

Bucyrus, March 4.—Sugar camps are being started in the maple groves of Crawford County. It is anticipated that maple sugar making will be in full swing within a day or so.

PARTY LEADERS GAIN VICTORY IN PASSAGE OF APPROPRIATION BILL

Victory Marks Defeat of Western Farm Bloc Using Opposition As Weapon To Force A Special Session.

Washington, March 4.—President Coolidge today signed the legislative appropriation bill carrying salary increases for members of Congress.

Washington, March 4.—The world court issue was flatly repudiated by the senate today when it voted to "table" a motion to consider a resolution providing for American adherence to the international tribunal.

The issue was raised by Senator King, Democrat of Utah, who offered a motion that the senate consider the adherence resolution in executive session.

Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, irreconcilable leader immediately moved to table King's motion and the senate overwhelmingly voted to do so. No record vote was taken.

Washington, March 4.—Wielding the party lash, administration leaders today jammed through the dying congress the $54,000,000 second deficiency appropriation bill which had been used as a weapon in the senate by the western farm bloc in its efforts to force a special session for the consideration of farm relief legislation.

Passage of the bill removed the last obstacle to an adjournment of congress until next December.

As passed, the bill was stripped of all public buildings appropriations but carried large sums to meet debts incurred by various government departments during the current fiscal year.

This appropriation, necessary to keep the government out of debt during the present fiscal year, was the weapon in the hands of a small bloc and all authors suffering alike.

SIMPLE RITES TAKE PLACE OF FORMER DISPLAY

Lack of Ostentation Marks Oath Taking Of Coolidge

Washington, March 4.—Cast aside the ostentatious display and glittering pageantry of other years, Calvin Coolidge bared his head to the chill March wind, on the plaza of the capitol today and in one of the simplest inaugural ceremonies on record, renewed the oath of office that he originally took nineteen months ago in the lamp-lit room of his father's Vermont farmhouse under tragic and dramatic circumstances.

A handful of hastily-garbed, awe-struck relatives were the sole witnesses of that other ceremony nineteen months ago, but today there were cheering thousands in the multitude that looked on and acclaimed him—completing a cycle of events unparalleled in the history of the Republic.

A few moments after he had repeated the words of the oath intoned by the black robed chief justice, Calvin Coolidge squared his shoulders, faced the panoramic sea of humanity in front of him and proclaimed to the country and to the world, the basic principles which will guide him in the conduct of the nation's affairs for the next four years.

Those, he said, would embrace peace with all the world and business prosperity at home.

His inaugural speech, short, in keeping with the whole ceremony, was a calm, dispassionate review of existing conditions, delivered by a calm, dispassionate man.

While the ceremonies that inducted Mr. Coolidge into his high office today were the simplest in many decades, not even his orders and wishes could keep the occasion from being a gala one.

On the vast plaza in front of the capitol, a crowd of scores of thousands were assembled.

The marine band, resplendent in scarlet coats and much gold braid, was placed directly beneath the president's stand.

Estimates of the number of people within range of the president's voice, carried through the loud speakers, varied widely, but among the lowest was 100,000.

The proceedings were slightly delayed by the slowness of the distinguished guests to leave the senate chamber and their seats out in the cold March sunshine.

A few minutes before one o'clock the members of the supreme court of the United States, led by Chief Justice Taft, walked down the center steps, raising the first scattering applause.

Mrs. Coolidge in gray and Mrs. Dawes in blue next appeared and the applause increased.

Immediately behind them came the President and vice president.

The band struck up, "Hail to the Chief," and the military snapped to salute.

While a breathless hush fell over the great assemblage there boomed the voice of Chief Justice Taft, clear as a bell.

"Do you solemnly swear to— The president's 'I do' could scarcely be heard.

He leaned forward slightly, and kissed the open Bible—the same one which he used as a small boy in learning to read.

He pronounced that oath at 1:02 p. m.

Then without more ado, he turned, faced his audience and began his speech.

His voice carried very well to every section of the extensive concourse and he was accorded perfect attention.

He delivered his address from manuscript, bareheaded and overcoated.

FIRECRACKER CASE

Shadyside, March 4.—An explosion, resulting when Fred Venham, local youngster, tossed a lighted firecracker into a gas regulator on Fourth of July last, is the basis for a $300 damage suit, on file in the Belmont County Common Pleas Court, against the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company. The petition asserted that when the Venham boy threw the firecracker away it fell into the open top of the company's control device, the resulting explosion injuring him.

COOLIDGE AND DAWES BECOME NATION'S HEADS

"This Administration has come into power with a very clear and definite mandate from the people.

"The expression of the popular will in favor of maintaining our constitutional guarantees was overwhelming and decisive. There was such a manifestation of faith in the integrity of the courts that we can consider that issue rejected for some time to come. Likewise, the policy of public ownership of railroads and certain electric utilities met with unmistakable defeat."

The President chose to divide his brief address into two parts. He spoke first of America's relations to the rest of the world, and he declared that "we can best serve our own country and discharge our obligations to humanity by being openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously American."

AMERICA'S DUTY

It is America's duty, being strong, he declared, to set the world an example in moderation of armament, and in the spirit of fair play and justice, to rest her cause before the world on arbitration and reason rather than force. He specifically endorsed the conference idea in settling international problems, and he hinted that conferences can be expected under his administration.

In conformity with this principle, he said, America should adhere to the World Court, as a practical exhibition of American willingness to subscribe to justiciable procedure in the settling of international disputes.

But, he declared, the United States can contribute most to the peace and security and stability of the world by "maintaining our position of political detachment and independence."

"This position," he said, "should be made more and more clear in our relations with all foreign countries. We are at peace with all of them. Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist."

"We have made great contributions to the settlement of contentious differences in both Europe and Asia. But there is a very definite point beyond which we cannot go. We can only help those who help themselves."

From this dealing with international affairs on a broad, general plane, the President turned to home problems. These he dealt with in the same manner, stressing always the need for less taxes, more enforcement of existing laws and non-interference by the Government with legitimate business.

The collection of more taxes than are absolutely required to run an orderly, efficient Government, he said, was simply a "species of legalized larceny."

"The time is arriving," he declared, "when we can have further tax reduction, when we must have tax reform."

"The method of raising revenues ought not to impede business, it ought to encourage it. I am opposed to extremely high rates, because they produce little or no revenue, because they are bad for the country and finally, because they are wrong."

"We cannot finance the country, we cannot improve social conditions through any system of injustice, even if we attempt to inflict it on the rich."

CORRECT COURSE

"The wise and correct course to follow in taxation and all other economic legislation is NOT to destroy those who have already secured success, but to create conditions under which everyone will have a better chance to be successful."

"The verdict of the country has been given on this question. We shall do well to heed that verdict."

Turning from taxation to law enforcement, Mr. Coolidge appealed to the nation for better observance of existing law. While he did not mention specifically the prohibition laws, it was evident that he had these in mind.

"The first rule for the guidance of a citizen is obedience to law," he said.

LAW VIOLATORS

"While there may be those of high intelligence who violate the law at times, the barbarian and the defective always violate it. Those who disregard the rule of society are treading the way that leads back to the jungle."

The President terminated his brief address with a plea for tolerance—"the fundamental precept of liberty."

"Here stands our country," he concluded, "an example of tranquillity at home, a patron of tranquillity abroad. Here stands its Government, aware of its might but obedient to its conscience."

"America seeks no earthly empire built on blood and force."

"No ambition, no temptation lures her to thought of foreign dominions. The legions which she sends forth are armed, not with the sword but with the cross. The higher state to which she seeks the allegiance of all mankind is not of human but of divine origin."

"She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

Vice-President of the United States

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES G. DAWES

General Charles G. Dawes one of the most picturesque figures in American politics became the thirtieth vice-president of the United States Wednesday. Politicians wonder if his colorful personality can be submerged as presiding officer of the senate or as Tom Marshall called it "sitting in the Cave of the Winds". Dawes sprang into prominence when, as purchasing agent for the American Expeditionary Forces during the war, he was called on the stand by the congressional committee investigating war expenditures, and shocked the committee by an explosive outburst of profanity in which "Hell and Maria" was a featured expression. He awoke next day to find himself famous overnight. Since then he served as director of the budget under President Harding and was head of the commission which prepared the Dawes reparation plan. His selection at the Cleveland convention came after both Borah and Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois turned down the nomination. Chairman Butler sent word to the convention floor that the nominee was to be Hoover but Dawes' friends crossed his plans and the fiery general was nominated on the first ballot.

and Jesse and Bruce of Jamestown. Arrangements for the funeral service have not been completed.

JAMESTOWN

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. C. M. Thompson was the hostess to the members of the Advance Club. Responses to roll call, "Current Events." The topic for discussion was "Nature's Lovers in Literature." The program was led by Mrs. L. S. Farquhar. Interesting papers were prepared by different members. Mrs. J. A. Bevan, "Burroughs;" Mrs. F. W. Ogan, "Walt Whitman;" Mrs. J. W. Benigar, "Burbank;" Mrs. J. C. Lackey, "Thoreau;" Mrs. C. M. Thompson, "Gene Porter;" Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, "Helen H. Jackson."

The Misses May and Sarah Harper will entertain the members of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon for the March meeting. The devotion topic is "The Water of Life," which will be conducted by Mrs. Frank Doster. The study book this year, portrays the conditions which exist in China. The topic of the program is "A Strong Nation, China," of which Mrs. J. A. Bevan will be the leader, assisted by Miss Emma Blaine. Mrs. M. H. Klatt will have a reading, "Glimpses of China Village Life." Mrs. Warren Collette will have charge of the mystery box.

The citizens of Jamestown are greatly elated over the transfer of what has been known as the Trebein Elevator, which has recently been purchased by C. F. and C. T. Vandervoort of Yellow Springs. Tentative plans are under way, to remodel and equip the building for a cannery factory. The canning of corn will be the leading feature of the industry this year, which is now interesting the farmers through this section. This building was erected many years ago by Mr. Trebein of Trebein Station, who operated it very successfully as a grain elevator for years. Since he sold the property it has changed owners several times, and was sold to the Vandervoort firm by C. E. Loyd of Washington C. H., who now owns and operates the Jamestown grain elevator. The building is situated a short distance from the latter, and has been used as storage rooms by the grain elevator for the past few years.

Mrs. Robert Harmount (Cleo Zeller), has returned to her home at Delaware, after a two weeks' visit in Jamestown.

Mrs. L. L. Gray will entertain the members of the Women's Missionary Society at the parsonage on Friday, which will be an all-day meeting. After the program, the time will be occupied with sewing on comforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thuma have had for their guests, Mrs. Nye Gregg and son, Robert of Washington C. H. Mr. Harry Lieurance and family are moving from Springfield into the property of Miss Viola Haines on West Main Street. Mr. Lieurance is manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Grocery Store here.

Attorney W. A. Paxson who has been confined to his home for some time, suffering from a stroke of paralysis, is now able to be on the street with the aid of a cane.

The Rev. L. L. Gray gave a profitable and instructive talk to the pupils of the high school on Monday morning.

Mrs. Salona Collins has returned to her home at Kennard, after a visit with her sisters, Mrs. Volney Conklin, Mrs. Charles Glass and Mrs. O. O. Breakfield.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Farquhar have had for their guests, Mrs. C. W. Acomb of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Acorn and daughters, the Misses Louise and Virginia and son, Earl of Dayton.

Mrs. Campbell Stirling who has spent several weeks at the home of her brother, N. N. Hunter, having been called here on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. L. C. Hunter, is leaving on Wednesday for her home at Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Helen George who are students at Oxford, came home on Friday and remained until Sunday.

This is moving week and our folks not only changing locations in Jamestown, but in the country adjacent.

Father William P. O'Connor a former pastor of the Jamestown St. Augustine Church, comes from Cincinnati on Wednesday evening the 4th and will give the sermon for the congregation. This is the beginning of a series of lectures, which Father Edward McGinty has planned for the Lenten season.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Walthall and Mrs. James Johnson spent Saturday in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Russell are moving from the apartment of Mrs. A. G. Paulin to a farm near Waynesville.

Charles G. Hatch is excavating for a new building, and when completed will form a business block for Mr. Hatch. The Bell Telephone Company will occupy space in the new building, when the plant here is remodelled it is said. The other offices will be taken also, as soon as they are finished.

The members of the Community Service Club, will hold two provision markets, in order to replenish their treasury. The first on Saturday morning the 7th. The folks east of Limestone Street will be the donors for this exchange. On the 21st the west end will contribute the provisions.

Mr. Hamma Bland who sold his farm near New Jasper to Benton Shaw, is moving with his family to Jamestown and will occupy the property of Mrs. Malissa Ary on Clemens Avenue.

GEORGE W. LEVECK DIES IN JAMESTOWN

George W. Leveck, 74, Civil War veteran, died at his home in Jamestown Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. Death followed an attack of acute indigestion which he suffered Monday evening.

Mr. Leveck had lived in Jamestown twenty-five years, moving his family there from Lumberton. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and four sons. They are: Mrs. George Slusher, of near New Jasper; Mrs. Otto Deubner, Sidney; William Leveck, Columbus; Arthur of Xenia.

DANGEROUS TO TRIFLE WITH A COUGH OR COLD

Neglected coughs or colds are liable to result in more serious ills. Don't trifle with them. They show that your system is under-nourished, not resisting common ailments as it should.

Coco Cod, a new medical food composed of cod liver oil with the flavor of rich cocoa, is being prescribed by physicians and recommended by teachers and scientists.

Coco Cod arms you with strong blood, iron nerves and abundant energy. It soothes the irritated membranes and builds up a reserve force of vitality that makes you feel alive in every fibre.

Children and adults who shrink from ordinary cod liver oil preparations, relish Coco Cod's delightful cocoa taste and thrive mightily on its rich A, B, C and D vitamins.

All good druggists have Coco Cod, the new, easy-to-take cod liver oil with the taste of rich cocoa.

Caution: Coco Cod is sold only in liquid form, in 12-ounce bottles, never in tablets. Best results are obtained with pure Norwegian cod liver oil in original liquid state. In Coco Cod you have the benefit of the finest, purest oil with the taste of rich chocolate.

Coolidge Highlights

Washington, March 4—President Coolidge's brief inaugural address, one of the shortest on record, bristled with epigrams today.

Some of the more pungent follow:

"We can best serve our country and humanity by being Americans."

"If we expect others to rely on our fairness and justice we must show that we rely on fairness and justice."

"We can only help those who help themselves."

"With us a treaty of peace means peace, and a treaty of amity means amity."

"Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist."

"There is no salvation in a narrow and bigoted partisanship."

"Economy is idealism in its most practical form."

"The wisest and soundest method of solving our tax problem is through economy."

"The collection of any taxes not absolutely required is only a species of legalized larceny."

"Under this Republic the rewards of industry belong to those who earn them."

"This country believes in prosperity."

The result of economic dissipation to a nation is always moral decay."

"Our problem is not to secure new advantages, but to maintain those which we already possess."

"In a Republic the first rule for guidance of the citizen is obedience to law."

"While there may be those of high intelligence who violate the law at times, the barbarian and the defective always violate it."

"The essence of a Republic is representative government."

"The fundamental precept of liberty is toleration."

MRS. COOLIDGE WEARS JOSEENA GOWN

Washington, March 4.—When Grace Coolidge rode down Pennsylvania Avenue this morning with her distinguished husband, she probably started a rush upon modistes and dressmakers that will last for several days.

All because the first inaugural costume represented the ultra-ultra in the latest style.

Her dress was fashioned of "joseena." It's color was "moonstone."

For the benefit of the novitiate, "joseena" is a new cloth, something of a cross between dayelyn and cash cloth with a dull finish.

"Moonstone" is the latest color to be evolved by those who prognosticate the fashions. It is a grey, somewhat darker than pearl, and with a warmer appearance.

The costume was an "ensemble" with a bodice of crepe de chine, and a collar of grey fox on the coat. Silver embroidery embellished the coat from shoulder to hem.

Mrs. Coolidge's hat was a modish spring model of straw, high crown and drooping, narrow brim, with a burnt-goose band.

Grey slippers completed the outfit.

PLAYMATES CELEBRATE EIGHTH BIRTHDAY PARTY

A group of little girls spent a merry afternoon celebrating the eighth birthday of young Miss Ruby Manor, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Manor of West Second Street, Saturday.

Pink and white colors were carried out in the refreshments of ice cream and cake served. Ruby received many nice gifts from her guests, who included: Phyllis Meltzer, Helen Owens, Margaret Ryan, Betty Baldwin, Elizabeth Huston, Betty Ruth Luck, Louise White, Dorothy McCoy, Dorothy Jean Manor, Elizabeth Courter, Georgia Harver, Virginia Anderson, Mildred Whittington, Nellie Randall, Lois Wheeler, Catherine and Marjorie Randall, Norma Martin, Dorothy Hatfield, Jane McPherson, Eleanor Chance, Eleanor Ackley, Virginia Chance, Evelyn Quinn and Mildred Horner.

MARRIAGE QUIETLY PERFORMED WEDNESDAY

The marriage of Miss Abigail Roland, of this city and Mr. Andrew Inlow Blake, of Dayton, was solemnized at the parsonage of the Friends Church, Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the Rev. A. J. Furstenberger officiating. The single ring ceremony was used. Mr. H. M. Roland, Lebanon, O., brother of the bride, was the only witness.

Mrs. Blake is the daughter of Mr. George Roland of High Street. Mr. Blake is the son of Mr. Lee Blake of Dayton, O., and is an employee of the Maxwell Motor Corporation, Dayton. Mrs. Blake was attired in a dark blue polka dot ensemble suit, with accessories to match and she carried a huge bouquet of roses. The couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip and will be at home in the near future in Dayton.

NEW CONGRESS COMES INTO EXISTENCE AS OLD BODY RETIRES

Washington, March 4.—The sixty-ninth congress came into existence at 12:17 today when the senate convened in special session in response to a proclamation by President Coolidge.

The president, members of the house of representatives, the supreme court, the foreign diplomats and hundreds of invited guests attended the first session, which lasted only long enough for the new vice president, Charles Gates Dawes to deliver his inaugural address and to swear in new senators.

The next session will be held late today or tomorrow to consider executive nominations and treaties held over from the last session. These include the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren, of Michigan, as attorney general, the fight over which is expected to be the most important in the senate's short session.

Thirty-two senators were sworn in when the new session started. Of this number, twenty-two were members of the last senate, while ten displaced senators defeated last year.

Twenty were Republicans and twelve were Democrats, the new senate lining up with a substantial Republican majority.

MITCHELL WILL BE DROPPED AS CHIEF OF ARMY AIR FORCE

Washington, March 4.—Brigadier General William Mitchell, about whom the air power controversy has revolved for some time, will not be continued as Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service when his present appointment expires March 26.

It is learned authoritatively that the next Assistant Army Air Chief will be elected from a brief list of names now before Secretary John W. Weeks, and that this list does not include General Mitchell, who has been an ardent advocate of unification of the Government Air Service, despite Administration opposition.

It was made known today that the nomination for the place would be sent by President Coolidge to the special session of the Senate, which is called for noon tomorrow, and that it would conform to any recommendation Secretary Weeks might make. Failure of General Mitchell to receive the appointment which carries the rank of Brigadier General, will return him automatically to the rank of Colonel.

The brief list now before Secretary Weeks includes eligibles recommended by Major General Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service; Major General John L. Hines, Chief of Staff, and others whose advice Mr. Weeks has sought in his efforts to find a man whose qualifications of the assignment cannot be questioned.

ADDRESSES FOLLOW DINNER AT CHURCH

The Rev. Ralph E. Stewart and O. S. Hubbard both of Attica, N. Y., addressed members of the First Reformed Church, at the informal social and inspirational meeting, at the church, Tuesday evening.

The talks followed a covered dish dinner, attended by about fifty members of the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Stewart gave a talk on evangelism among the laymen and Mr. Hubbard talked on the importance of evangelism from the layman's standpoint.

The meeting was one of a series of preparatory meetings to be held preceding a series of special services, April 10 to 25. Special meetings will be held each Wednesday evening, until the meetings, in charge of the Rev. Mr. Stewart, begin, according to the announcement of the Rev. D. A. Sellers, pastor.

HOUSE BURNS

A vacant house owned by the Osborn Removal Company, in Osborn, was damaged by fire Tuesday afternoon, but the blaze was extinguished before heavy loss was sustained.

The fire is supposed to have started on an overheated stove, a number of workmen having built a fire in the place.

DAWES SHATTERS ANCIENT CUSTOMS AT FIRST SESSION

Washington, March 4.—Charles Gates "Hell and Mariah" Dawes, newly installed vice president of the United States, completely shattered custom and precedent in his first day as presiding officer of the senate.

After lambasting senate rules, Dawes stepped out of the quiet role which had been carefully prepared for him and took absolute charge of the inaugural ceremonies.

It is the custom for senators-elect to take the oath in groups of five. After the first five had been administered, Dawes smashed all traditions by ordering all the other senators-elect to come to the well of the senate and take the oath collectively.

After the clerk had read the names of the second group of five, Dawes arose abruptly from his chair, shouting:

"Call them all, bring them all up." Senate attaches were flabbergasted. A great roar of laughter and applause went up as the senators-elect crowded to the front of the rostrum.

After administering the oath collectively, Dawes again upsetting the plans, announced: "The senate will go to the east front of the capitol." It had been arranged that the senate, the house and all other branches of the government should file out individually as they came in.

Dawes thus cut the inaugural ceremonies so short that the senators-elect were signing their names to the senate roster ten minutes after the audience left the chamber to witness President Coolidge's inauguration in the capitol plaza.

His fame for abruptness, audacity and bluntness in private life, Dawes carried with him today as the senate's presiding officer. Throughout his speech he fairly shouted as he struck home a point he wished emphasized. He punched the air with his hands, and stamped his feet, roving from side to side, over the rostrum.

The audience both on the floor and in the gallery warmed up rapidly to Dawes and laudly applauded. His hard hitting gestures provoked great laughter.

The dignity, solemnity and quietness with which the inauguration started, gave way as soon as Dawes took the chair. He snapped up the proceedings and it seemed for all as if the senate were in the midst of one of its most hectic and wildest sessions.

If his acts today can be taken as a criterion, the senate in the next four years will travel with all the speed of a limited express. Dawes tolerated no delay, whatever in the ceremonies today.

First and Second Ladies of Land

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE & MRS. C. G. DAWES

Washington, March 4.—A dual inauguration is transpiring in Washington today.

Upon the first are the eyes of the world. Calvin Coolidge is launching an administration in his own name.

Its sequel is continuance for four years more the reign of Grace Goodhue Coolidge over the affairs of the Executive Mansion. Not so important to the Nation, perhaps, but of more than passing interest to millions of women.

The Executive is assuming formally continued leadership of some 110,000,000 Americans. The First Lady is assuming formally continued authority of the daily functions in that famous three-story structure known as the White House, with its twenty-odd rooms and its twenty-five servants.

DUTIES DIFFER

Duties of the Presidential couple differ greatly, but in their relative proportions they are equally exacting. Mrs. Coolidge, supervising and directing the thousand-and-one little events incident to each day in the Executive Mansion—and she does exactly that—may be compared to the head of a small business concern.

And in the nineteen months she has shared the Nation's highest office with her famous husband, Mrs. Coolidge has gained the reputation of being a most efficient mistress of the White House. Her fame as a hostess and a home maker has become widespread.

Those under her say she has earned it and such a statement means much to persons daily brought in touch with White House attaches.

There have been First Ladies in the past, outwardly gracious and lovable. But from within the Mansion have come whisperings of overbearing dominance, of thoughtlessness, of inefficiency and carelessness.

Not so of Mrs. Coolidge. She has won herself a warm spot in the hearts of her servants and they, who come daily in intimate contact with her, should know best of her true qualities.

NO SERVANTS BEFORE

Grace Coolidge has not always known the joys of luxury. For sixteen years she and the President lived in half of a two-family house that rented for $30 a month. It is said she never had any servants of any kind before coming to the White House.

To the manner born, however, she has held forth in the White House. The receptions of the past two Winters have been the highlights of American social life. Her more informal teas, garden parties and "at homes" have become the feminine mecca.

Withal, in the past year and seven months, Mrs. Coolidge has shown herself to be most democratic. One is apt to see her almost any afternoon on the streets of Washington, window-shopping and generally enjoying herself thoroughly mingling unrecognized among the bustling thousands of Government workers. Seldom does she employ the White House limousines for her daily outings; for the most part she walks.

A marked consideration is shown by Mrs. Coolidge for those with whom she comes in contact on her shopping tours. Last year at Christmas time each of the thirty or more clerks who assisted her in her Yuletide shopping received a beautiful bouquet of White House roses on Christmas Day.

In the marriage of the President and Mrs. Coolidge is found a delightful human interest story, bearing directly upon the President's political fortunes. As a direct result of his marriage Mr. Coolidge sustained the only defeat in running for public office he ever experienced. The story is this:

ON HIS HONEYMOON

Some little time before the wedding plans materialized Coolidge then just becoming known in Northampton, Massachusetts, filed his candidacy for a minor office of the town. Two opponents filed against him and the fight was on.

Then the President decided to get married, did so, and departed on his honeymoon in the heat of the campaign. He returned a week before election, but the damage had been done, his opponents had succeeded in killing off his chances and he experienced his first and last political defeat.

Grace Goodhue, at the time she met the President, was a teacher of the blind. Their engagement and marriage was all the more surprising to their friends because the two represented types almost diametrically opposite. Mrs. Coolidge was gay and vivacious, she loved dancing and sports. The President was taciturn and reticent, he preferred solitude and quiet. The difference still exists.

But one thing has marred the events of the past four years that saw her husband rise dramatically to the highest office of the land. That came last summer in the death of her younger son, Calvin. Never was there a more sorrowful spectacle than that which occurred in the little cross-roads cemetery far up in the Green Mountains of Vermont when young Calvin was buried.

But Mrs. Coolidge still has her older boy, John, now a freshman at Amherst—him, and consoling memories of that young counterpart of her distinguished husband who brought a Nation's sorrow to her feet.

HOLD ONTO YOUR HAT

DID you ever stop to think that winds do many things besides blowing your hat down the street, tearing down signs and trees and unroofing buildings? Winds carry the climate of the ocean to the land and of the land to the ocean. They transport solid material in enormous quantities from one part of the earth to another.

Farmers must often fight them with windbreaks and other expedients lest their fields be buried in drifting sands and their crops suffer the parching effects of "wind-burn." In the temperate zones winter is in general windier than summer on account of the greater contrasts of temperature that prevail in the cold season between higher and lower altitude. This effect lags in some regions into the early spring. March measures up to its proverbial reputation over the greater portion of the United States east of the Mississippi river where statistics show a greater total wind movement for this month than for any other in the year.

Wind velocity is today accurately measured by the use of instruments, not only aboard ocean vessels but also by weather bureau stations and aviation fields as the true facts regarding winds are even more important today to the aviator than to the captain of one of the giant passenger ships which plow the mountainous waves of the Atlantic or Pacific. Never-the-less the pedestrian on a March day is not possessed of wind registration figures—so hold onto your hat this month.

SENDS CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

A GREAT deal of attention has been given by big corporations in recent years to welfare and educational work, not only among their own employees but also for the benefit of the public in general. One of the most recent specific instances of this interest on the part of big organizations is the policy which has been adopted by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad towards stimulating the interest of the farm boys and girls in the things of the farm.

Just last week the officials of this transportation company announced that it will award two scholarships of $100.00 each in this state to the boy or girl who most efficiently completes his or her project in agricultural club work. The club member may enter any type of club work recognized and supervised by the State University Agricultural Extension Service, such as Corn clubs, Pig clubs, Potato clubs, Sewing clubs, canning clubs, Poultry clubs, Calf clubs, and so forth. Each winner of a scholarship will have the alternative of using the scholarship for educational purposes at any recognized college or university in the state, or in defraying the expenses of an educational trip to Washington, D. C.

The same railroad has awarded 37 scholarships to date, 24 of which the winners chose to use for educational purposes at their respective universities, while 13 chose the educational trip. Of the 24 who elected the scholarships for college educational purposes 12 are now in college in the states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

This kind of work on the part of big corporations will most certainly tend to produce more efficient farmers and farm wives in the future.

PROMISE

Spring's coming on again,
Snow's almost gone again
Tulips will blossom soon,
Pansies are due;
But a few days and then
Sunshine will blaze and then
Nature will robe all her
Children anew.

Skies will be clean again,
Trees will be green again,
Rivers and creeks will set out
For the sea,
Robins will sing again,
Bustle bring again
Birds they can use for the nest
In the tree.

Dark is the sky today
Now where they lie today
Barren and bleak is the world
Which we know,
Think of the slumbering things,
Fast all our numbering things
Think of the blades of grass
Waiting to grow!

Under the earth they lie,
Splenors uncounted and
Treasures untold;
Nowhere a space so bare,
Nowhere a place so bare,
But hidden come loveliness
Soon to unfold.

Bright to the eyes again,
So as they rise again
We from our winter-bleak
Weather-worn clay
Surely shall grow again
Life's joy to know again—
Spirits as fair as the
Petals of May.

When the housekeeper wishes to serve an unusually heavy meal, she is wise to plan for one lemon-flavored dish. For the tart, refreshing taste of lemon seems to lighten the meal in the same way that a crisp salad does. Try the following recipes:

Lemon Fruit Cocktail: Dice the pulp of one large lemon and mix with the diced pulp of one-half orange; add one-half cup of diced pineapple, one-half cup of chopped canned cherries and sliced banana. Sweeten to suit the individual taste, and divide into cocktail glasses, adding enough of the mixed juices from these fruits barely to cover.

Lemon Tapioca Pudding: Put oneleat cup of granulated tapioca, and one cup of granulated sugar and two cups of cold water into the top of a double boiler and cook, over simmering water, until the tapioca is clear and transparent, stirring frequently. Then add three tablespoons of lemon juice, and one-fourth teaspoon of grated lemon rind one two or three minutes longer. Cool, and when it begins to thicken fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs and beat well. Turn the mixture into a serving dish and set aside till chilled and firm. Serve with an ordinary sauce made of the two left-over egg yolks.

Lemon Sponge Cakes: Beat three-

LURE

All of us are led forward or backward by some lure: Gold, love, success, beauty, earned solitude. To me the leadership of beauty seems to outlive all else. For beauty brings nothing but happiness and it soothes and sweetens every inch of life's way.

Just imagine what a world this would be without the lure of beauty. Take away the flowers, the green grass, the trees, all color, all kindness and nobility from people's hearts, all touch of beauty from the handiwork of men's hands, and what would we do? Every drop of incentive for life would be gone.

Surround yourself with beautiful things, think beautiful thoughts, do beautiful acts and you cannot help but be happy. For these things are the very atoms of happiness.

The lure of love and beauty will lead you aright. The lure of mere money, vain glory, and false attraction will only accumulate pain and sorrow for you.

If a man is making much money

how very difficult it is to get him to talk or think of anything else. Yet how cheap and material is the fight for gold alone! Even high intelligence will not be ensnared. In fact intelligence understands how futile is the task of mere money making.

I like the lure behind the love of books, always leading you fresh minds and aspiring moods.

How the lure of new countries grips.

The introduction of the automobiles has poured beauty into millions of lives. It has taken people into the hills and vast open spaces and stirred minds that for years had become dormant and too easily satisfied with their surroundings.

Then there is the lure of loyalty—binding friends together and making human beings assets to each other.

HUGHES CASE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT BY SERVICE BOARD

The State Civil Service Commission which heard charges against W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary Tuesday, took its decision under advisement after the conclusion of evidence at 4:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

About eighteen witnesses were introduced by both sides during the day, in the order of their convenience. Charges against Hughes were filed by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the infirmary, and allege incompetency of the defendant because of his advanced age.

In his answer to these charges, Hughes contended lack of success in farming operations at the institution was due to the in-expert advice of Crow and that the charges filed against him were in retaliation for the fact that Hughes testified against the superintendent recently at the hearing at which he was vindicated of charges brought against him in an ouster effort by former county commissioners.

The prosecution, represented by J. C. Marshall, prosecuting attorney, claimed to score points in Tuesday afternoon's testimony by showing that Hughes was born in 1857, which would make him 68 years of age in the face of his own sworn statement that he is only 63. The prosecution dwelt upon the discrepancy in the statement of the defendant and the records.

The prosecution also claimed a victory in the testimony of Herman Eavey, president of the board of county commissioners, who admitted commissioners had discussed the fact that Hughes was growing incompetent and talked of discharging him a year ago, before any charges had been filed against Crow or Hughes. The commission is expected to render a decision from Columbus within a few days.

AUTOISTS ESCAPE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident, on that pike, early Wednesday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Spahr were coming to Xenia, and attempted to pass the truck of the Frank B. Scott Tinning Shop, this city, on the road. The truck was loaded with a long ladder, and when the machines were passing each other, the ladder was swerved and struck the Spahr car.

The impact demolished the top of the machine occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Spahr but they escaped unhurt.

GIRLS OF ANTIOCH BEAT CINCINNATI

The Antioch College girls' basketball team defeated the speedy University of Cincinnati five by the score of 24 to 19, on the local floor Monday night. The game established the Antioch squad as one of the best girls' teams in the state.

The game was a thriller from start to finish, A. Dawson and C. Dawson playing stellar roles. The two girls scored all the points registered by Antioch between them.

YELLOW SPRINGS

The Antioch Players will present two one-act folk dramas, "The Wonder Hat" and "The Lord's Prayer," in the Opera House, Friday evening. These plays will be given for the benefit of the Yellow Springs Library.

The Social Service League will hold an all day sewing party at the home of Mrs. D. A. Brewer, Wednesday. Each member will invite a guest and bring a covered dish.

For the first time in history the Girls' Dormitory of Antioch College, was open to the public for inspection Sunday afternoon. The faculty members and many friends from the village were entertained by the girls. The dormitory with its hardwood floor beautiful parlors and bright draperies made a very attractive picture. The girls received the visitors and escorted them through the building.

REMOVAL OF WRIGHT FIELD DEFINITELY BLOCKED FOR TIME

The senate passed the second deficiency bill Monday virtually as it passed the house without including an item for funds for the removal of the air intermediate depot from Fairfield to Middletown, Pa., which means that there will be transfer this year.

It was proposed by Maj. Gen. Mason at Patrick, chief of the army air service, to move Wilbur Wright Field to Middletown for purposes of economy. Activities of citizens of Fairfield and Osborn aided by Congressman Charles Brand of Urbana, and Attorney Morris Rice, of Osborn, caused its postponement.

Air service officials who had decided on the move declared Tuesday that they would renew their request at the next session of congress. An appeal for funds to begin the removal was stricken out by the house appropriations sub-committee on arguments presented by Congressman Brand.

FORMER RESIDENT OF COUNTY DIES

John W. Durnbaugh, 53, former Greene County, member of the firm of John W. Durnbaugh and Son, dealers in coal and builders' supplies, died Tuesday night at 10:15 o'clock at his residence, at Barr's Station, on the Xenia Pike.

Mr. Durnbaugh was born in Greene County, where he resided until twenty-five years ago when he went to Dayton to live. Prior to entering the coal and building supply business, five years ago he was postal clerk in the Dayton postoffice for twenty years.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Katherine and a son, Glennard. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

ALL PARENTS HAVE COMPLIED NOW WITH VACCINATION ORDER

The fifth parent who refused to comply with the vaccination order for all children issued by school officials, and who with others, was threatened with being charged with contributing to the dependency of the children, followed the path of least resistance, Tuesday and the children were vaccinated and are now back in school.

After the discovery by Probation Officer J. E. Watt that five parents had refused to comply with the vaccination order and were keeping their children from school, court officials threatened to file affidavits charging the parents with contributing to the dependency of their children.

If the action had been followed, the parents would be fined or jailed. The drastic threats of the officials resulted in the parents complying with the law.

MODISH MITZI—Several Views of an Interesting Subject

By JAY V. JAY

It's the right pose. It's the right view. And the enthusiastic photographer is about to preserve it for posterity or for Mitzi's friends at least. The jumper frock with the collar and tie of the same material gives an idea of sports wear and the smartness with which Mitzi wears it. Perhaps she'll give this to Bill.

Another picture, another costume, another collar. The collar is of organdy and is scalloped. The puff sleeves match it. For this kind of a neckline one of the very tight pearl or metal necklaces is very smart. So much dignity, it gives one too. Perhaps Dad will like this pose.

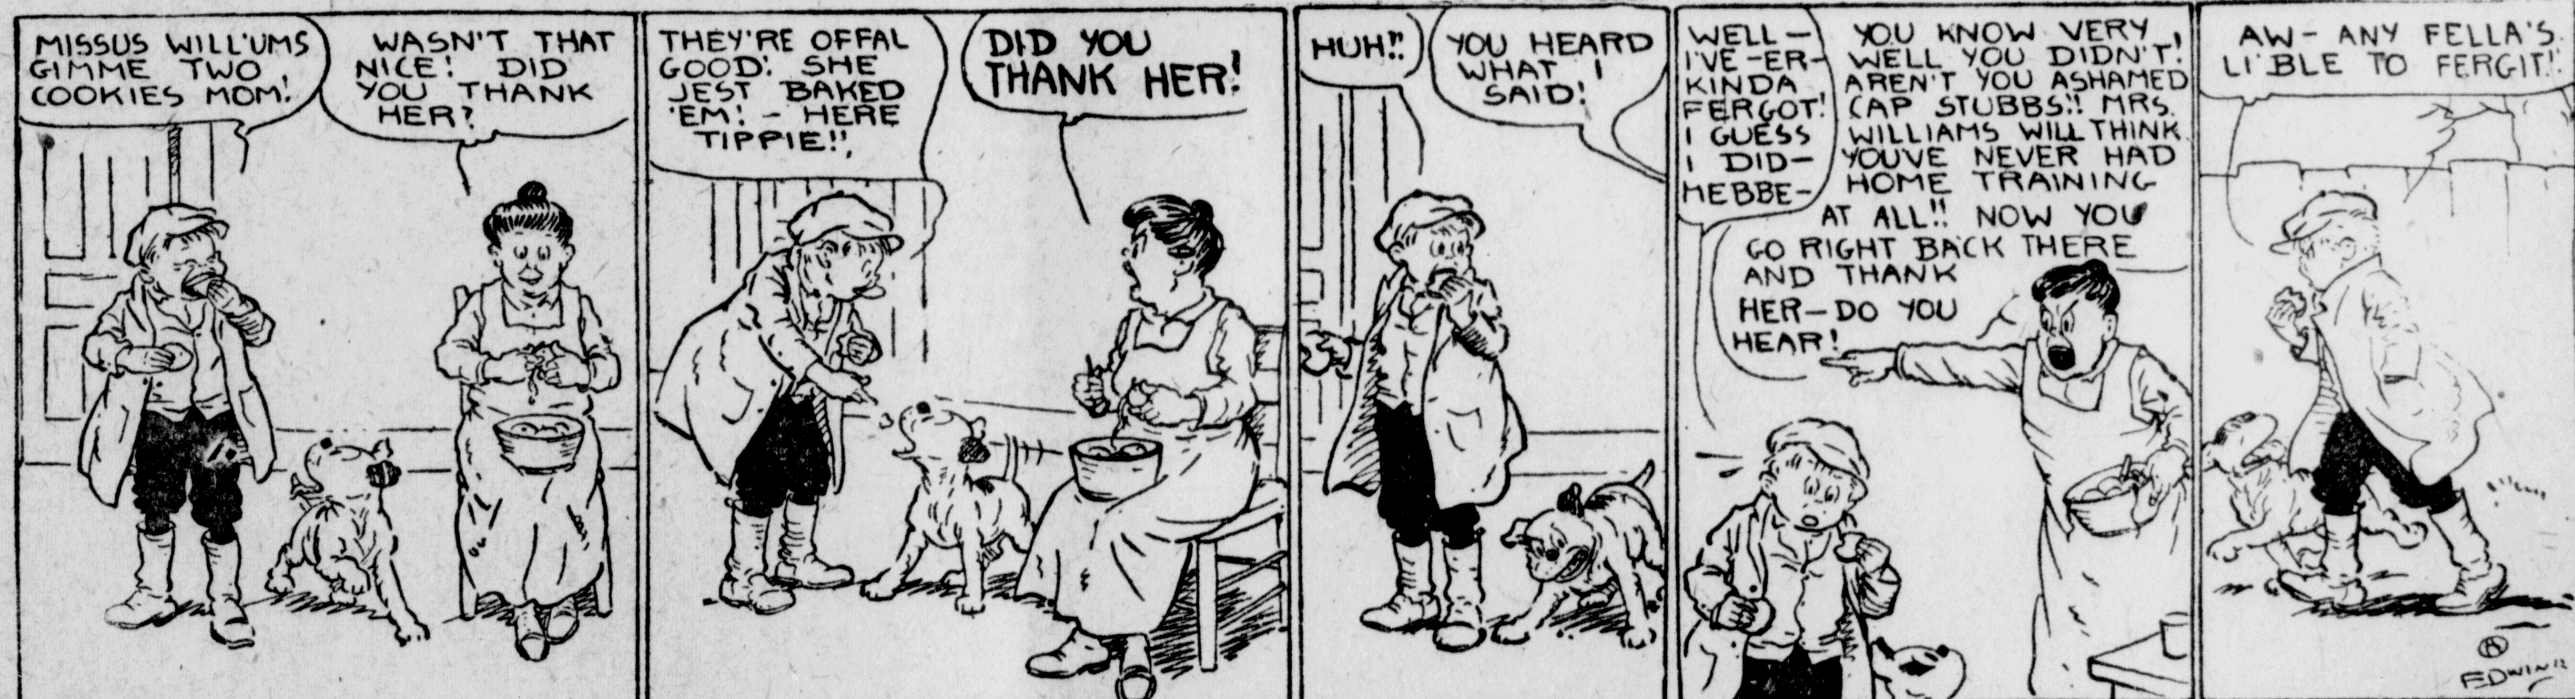

Quite demure, she is. It's the collar that achieves the effect aided and abetted by Mitzi's expression. The narrow turned up collar is relieved by a satin ribbon that ties with a bow and has long streamers. The cuffs likewise. Wonder would the Goofer like this picture?

This bateau neckline of Mitzi's evening dress is decorated with an orchid. The gown is of lace and has streamers from the shoulders of georgette. It's all very becoming to Mitzi. A profile view would perhaps be best. This picture seems to be for some one rather special. Who's? he, any way?

PROPOSED PARK STAMPED AS BIG OPPORTUNITY BY KI-RO SPEAKERS

"The home cannot solve the problem of the teen age child,—it is a matter of community interest and importance," was the statement of W. G. Robinson, Jackson, Mich., district representative of the National Recreation Association, who delivered the main address of the evening at the joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

The joint meeting was held to give impetus to the plans of the Xenia Recreation Association for a community park in the Dodds Addition, in the tract donated to the city by P. H. Flynn of the Xenia Shoe Manufacturing Company.

"The amount of community interest in the young people of the city determines either a Boy Scout Troop or an alley gang, a crap game or a supervised dance or a trip to a roadhouse," was the statement of Mr. Robinson.

"The teen age child makes no distinction in his form of entertainment. He takes what the community gives or makes his own pleasures." "The small city has an advantage for the young children but for the teen age boy or girl, it is as bad as the cosmopolitan center," the speaker declared.

He urged the park sponsors not to forget adult recreation in their plans for the park. "For the child, play is growth, and to the adult it is recreation," he said.

He said the outstanding need of organized activity was leadership, and as an illustration cited Ben Piers, community recreation director of Dayton, and former Xenian. "The difference between unorganized and organized recreation is that it is easy for the unorganized group of young people to form their own methods of enjoyment, whether shooting crap does not need organization," Mr. Robinson said, "but a game of baseball must have a certain number of men, organized with the proper equipment. The things worth while take organization," he said.

"Play is the common denominator of community life, which brings all classes and parties on a common plane," the speaker said. "After all the question is whether the community will pay play or crime bills, and if the play-bills are paid there will be no crime bills."

Mr. Robinson told what other towns and cities in the country the size of Xenia are doing in the recreation line. The recreation work, he said, takes the interest of the citizens out of their own family group and gives it to the benefit of all. He said that was the main joy of his work, and that all men should catch the vision of the community recreation plan.

He urged the club members to sponsor the park plan and interest the entire community in the idea, since the proposed plat was ideally situated for the city.

He cited Chicago, Youngstown, Lebanon, O., Albion, Mich., and other cities where community parks are flourishing. He said that in 1896 there were forty-one such parks in the country; 1913, 302 and in 1923, 680 parks. He said that $5,700,000 was spent in 1913 for park projects and in 1923, $14,000,000.

Mr. Robinson was introduced by E. M. Woodward, of the Xenia Recreation Association. After Mr. Robinson's talk, Mr. Woodward displayed a new design for the park, which will be on display in a local bank window.

The local association is planning to raise $10,000 to carry out the park project. The money will be used to build a lagoon, drain the swamp on the tract, level the ground, trim the trees, construct an indoor baseball diamond, make a wading pool, construct the tennis courts and grade walks and buy park benches.

Committees will be appointed by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, to supervise the solicitation of the money. A meeting will be held March 17, when the drive will be launched.

Dr. B. R. McClellan gave a short talk and urged the clubmen to give their time and effort to "Xenia's opportunity."

The meeting opened with a selection by the Ki-Ro orchestra composed of Dr. A. B. Kester, Forest Hurley, Miss Helen Hurley and W. E. Currie. Club songs were sung and Dr. Kester and the Rev. W. H. Tilton led in several verses of "Howdydo."

City Auditor T. H. Zell gave the history of the proposed park, in a brief talk. He said that civic bodies had discussed a park for several years, but the donation of Mr. Flynn of the tract of land had clinched the idea.

He urged the club members to "get behind" the project and instill general community interest.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

Masterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Masterole. Masterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Masterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Masterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Masterole. 35c and 65c jars and tubes.

FARMER EULOGIZED BY EDUCATOR IN TALK AT RALLY TO LAUNCH FARM BUREAU DRIVE

"The membership campaign of the Greene County Farm Bureau means uplift of Greene County in a way that no other organization of the community can reach," declared Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, in the principal address of the County Rally held in connection with the Farm Bureau campaign at the assembly room of the Court House, Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. McChesney traced the part the American farmer has played in history of the United States, from the time the Huguenots came from France and settled in the Carolinas. He traced the rural pursuits of the English in Virginia, the Roman Catholics in Maryland, the Quakers in Pennsylvania, the Dutch in New York and the Puritans in New England.

"The first sons of toil in America were the farmers," declared the speaker. "They laid the foundation in a God-given country. They were first in patriotism and laid the democratic foundation in the thirteen colonies."

"Four out of the five men who drew up the Declaration of Independence were farmers," he said. Dr. McChesney spoke of Washington as a farmer, "as he lived and died on a farm, except for the years of his public service."

In eulogizing the American farmer, Dr. McChesney said "We owe our independence to the embattled farmers, and every farmer should be proud to be such."

He told how the farmers answered their country's call in 1812, 1861-1865 and in the World War, where he hoped "they gave the last blow to European tyranny."

The speaker also traced the part of the farmer in public life and gave the names of the large number of Presidents of the United States who came from the farm, even to Calvin Coolidge. He spoke of the importance of the farmer along other legislative lines and declared that the farmer was the only class directly represented in the government.

He urged re-forestation, as one of the pursuits of the farmer in government. "The farmers are first in character building as they established religion when this country was first founded and all of the settlers of this country believed in God."

"They then established the schools to train the heart, mind and souls of the coming generations. As farmers of today, have we lived up to the example of our forefathers in moral teaching of our children?" he asked. "Boys and girls should be trained in the vision of God to safeguard the interests of this country. This rests with the farmer and all classes. We must train our children to know the benefits of the farm, its advantages, and uplifting if we do not want the foreigner to usurp our rural communities," he declared.

The rally program was presided over by W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau and Campaign chairman. He presented the strong arguments that are to be followed by membership solicitors, that of the accomplishments of the organization. He stressed the growth of the county farm bureau among marketing and co-operative lines.

W. W. Anderson, county publicity chairman of the campaign, outlined the plans for the drive from the publicity standpoint. "Organization and cooperation are the key-words of the time and play an important part in this drive," he said.

He told of the work outlined for the seven weeks of the campaign. Three weeks of this period have already been covered, and the remaining time will be spent in soliciting and winding up the plans.

Township rallies and "pep" meetings will be staged throughout the county and the workers will be given every preparation to make a thorough canvass, Mr. Anderson announced.

"The Farm Bureau stands for co-operation and 95 per cent of the leadership in Greene County extension work is furnished by the organization," declared County Agent Ford S. Prince, in a short talk. "We need more leaders, more than we need money," he said.

"The Farm Bureau probably means more to the farm woman than it does to the man," was the statement of Mrs. N. J. Kuriger, Bath Township. She made her point on the theory that the organization by introducing better methods, saves money for the farmer which in turn helps the woman of the farm and that all projects encouraged by the Farm Bureau were for the betterment of the home.

E. C. Anstaett, of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, who is working with local Farm Bureau officials in staging the drive reviewed the recent accomplishments of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and the local organization. "Our aim is to simplify and better living conditions on the farm," he said. "We want to make the farm home more attractive and obtain better marketing and shipping facilities."

"The farmers are striving today for the same thing as the laboring and business men of the city, are, that of making better homes and communities and bettering American business standards. We are accomplishing our purpose and if we want to keep the American farm American, we must pull together."

He explained the continuous membership contract which will be offered Greene County farmers in the drive. "The Farm Bureau has a record to be proud of and every farmer should be interested in the welfare of his own business," was his closing statement.

A club demonstration was staged by the Misses Louise Thomas and Katherine Conklin on the Busy Bee Sewing Club of Caesar Creek Township under the direction of Mrs. R. B. Mc

Kay. This club won first prize at the Greene County Farm last year and second honors at the Ohio State Fair, for the completeness of its work.

The program closed with an open discussion with two-minute talks by prominent farmers. Music was furnished interspersing the program by the Grange orchestra.

THE Ford car has remained the undisputed leader for value in the motoring world.

There are certain fundamental reasons why this is true. It is a car, properly designed and staunchly constructed, having a motor which has proved itself reliable, long-lived and economical.

It is adequately serviced by an organization reaching to every community and neighborhood.

These combine to give the Ford car the highest resale value in proportion to list price.

And as production volume of the Ford has grown the purchase price has been steadily reduced.

NEW EXPRESS RATES NOW EFFECTIVE ARE LOWER THAN BEFORE

Changes in express rates and charges ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective March 1st, will result in many economies for shippers, according to Agent L. L. Jordan.

New express rates go into effect throughout the United States, Mr. Jordan said, after a careful study of the new tariff placed on file at his office recently. Practically every basic rate per 100 pounds has been changed and the State Commission has authorized their application to intrastate rates applying on business handled within the state.

While there are some increases in rates, applying particularly in the eastern territory, according to Mr. Jordan, generally speaking the changes are downward and the lower rates will prevail in the greater part of the country. The most marked reductions are in the West and the South, thus enabling shippers to reduce their transportation costs substantially.

Mr. Jordan has prepared the following rate comparison with the old from this city to other important points throughout the country.

FROM XENIA, OHIO	New Rate	Old Rate
To Los Angeles	$10.25	$12.68
Miami, Fla.	$ 5.40	$ 6.10
Cincinnati, O.	$ 1.15	$ 1.25
Columbus, O.	$ 1.15	$ 1.25
New York, N. Y.	$ 3.40	$ 3.11

Mr. Jordan advises shippers to investigate the new rates and will be glad to give any information on the subject at his command.

BRINGING UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND had a misunderstanding with her husband, JIM LELAND, due to his mother's interference in their affairs. Jim goes to Honolulu, taking his mother with him. Cynthia accepts the attentions of

NOEL GARDNER, and through him buys some stock which Madame Leland has thought worthless, for the purchase of which she had held Cynthia responsible. Cynthia makes several friends outside the set in which her sister-in-law,

LOUELLA and her husband, Stanley, move. Among them is

CECILE MALCOLM, who openly avows her affection for Noel.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXVIII—POLITE BLACKMAIL

CYNTHIA was dressing the next morning when her mail was brought to her. She looked through the pile of letters at once to see if there was any word from her husband; then, disappointed, shuffled them over more slowly. An envelope with the words "Town Talk" in one corner attracted her attention, and she slit it first of all. She had occasionally glanced through a copy of this gossip weekly paper, but had never paid much attention to it.

Within was a piece of paper and a letter. The former evidently was a proof of a page from the next issue of the paper, with a line drawn in blue pencil around one of the items of news.

"Those who are in the know are predicting that before long a charming bride who came to town not long ago will become an equally charming divorcee," Cynthia read. "Her husband has seen fit to absent himself from home, giving business as an excuse, and taking his mother with him. The bride, far from being disconsolate, is enjoying life with a young man whose wife recently divorced him in Paris. She has closed her husband's home and taken the apartment formerly occupied by her new suitor and his wife, and it is freely predicted that by the end of the year she will become its permanent occupant, having changed her name and her husband in the interim."

Cynthia sank weakly into a chair, and read the hateful notice through again. It meant her, of course—there could be no doubt of that. She turned to the letter. An explanation was ready for her there.

Most graciously she was informed that "Town Talk" was to issue a special anniversary number in a few weeks. And the editor hoped sincerely that she would feel inclined to contribute to its success by taking advertising space in this special number. If she so desired, her name need not appear in connection with the advertisement; she could merely take a page and send in her check, as an appreciation of the service which "Town Talk" had rendered her by entertaining her and her friends.

And no doubt she would be interested in the enclosed page from next week's issue of the magazine, which was enclosed.

Cynthia paced up and down the room so angry that she could hardly think. It was blackmail! And yet what could she do? Her name was not mentioned, although of course everyone in town who knew her would at once realize that she was meant.

"I'll let them go ahead and print it—I won't be bullied by these thieves!" she exclaimed furiously. And yet was that the best thing to do? Wouldn't it be better to buy them off? Of course, she had done nothing wrong. Yet she had given these blackmailers all they needed for just such an attack as this one!

"If only Jim were here," she sighed. "He'd know how to handle them." But if Jim had been there the whole thing wouldn't have happened.

Of course, she might tell Noel Gardner about it. Perhaps that was the best thing to do. But no sooner had she decided on that course, than she refused to consider it. For she knew well enough what Gardner would do. He would go straight to the offices of "Town Talk" and horsewhip the editor—there could be no doubt of that. Then there would be trouble!

She sat down at last, too tired to walk up and down the room any longer, longing with all her heart for just one person to whom she could go with this new trouble. She felt hideously alone in the world.

It seemed to her that she had made a hopeless muddle of her life. She had married Jim with every expectation of being gloriously happy, wanting only to make him a good wife. And then things had been taken out of her hands. Somehow her mother-in-law had come between her and Jim, and now Jim and Madame Leland were off on the other side of the world, and she was here, with everyone gossiping about her and Noel Gardner.

"Oh, the only thing for me to do is to straighten things up the best I can and just get out of town," she cried at last. She jumped up and ran to her desk. The editor of "Town Talk" had given the advertising rates of his magazine; a page, which he expected her to take, would be three hundred dollars. She hastily scribbled a check, enclosed it in his letter, and addressed an envelope to him.

Then she began to dress for the street. Calling Frances, she had her personal belongings packed; the maid looked at her in bewilderment when that order was given, but obediently got out Cynthia's traveling bags and set to work.

"Madam is going away?" she asked, after a few moments.

"Yes, for a visit. You can have a month's vacation, Frances, and I'll write you before I return."

To herself Cynthia said that she would never come back, and Frances, busily packing flimsy lingerie, told herself the same thing.

COOLIDGE IS INAUGURATED PRESIDENT

EXECUTIVE URGES AMERICAN ENTRY IN WORLD COURT

CHARLES G. DAWES SWORN IN AS THIRTIETH VICE-PRESIDENT OF U. S.

President Declares Most Important Problem Is To Maintain Advantages We Possess—Serves Notice On Bolters.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

Washington, March 4.—"Our most important problem is NOT to secure new advantages, but to maintain those we already possess."

With this sage observation concerning the task at hand, Calvin Coolidge assumed the Presidency of the United States today, and in one of the shortest, simplest inaugural addresses on record pledged himself to continue for four years the policies he has already inaugurated.

These policies he set forth in his brief address as follows:

FOREIGN POLICIES

Abroad—A continuation of American helpfulness and co-operation where deserved; aloofness from the political quarrels and jealousies of the Old World; with America setting a moral example for the world in moderate armament, and displaying a willingness always to substitute the rule of reason for the rule of force.

At home—A continuation of the rigid economy in government that already has marked his administration; further tax reduction; encouragement to American business; enforcement of laws; party responsibility in government; and non-interference by the Government in legitimate private business.

Those who came to the wind-swept Plaza of the Capitol today expecting to see "a new Coolidge" stepping into the Presidency in his own right, and accompanying it with a glittering speech setting forth new policies and new goals, were not accorded any such spectacle.

SHOWED CALMNESS

With the same calmness that has ever marked his official acts, Mr. Coolidge simply interpreted the November election as a national endorsement of his administration and

BATTLE ON BROWN GAS TAX BILL WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK

No Important Measures Before Assembly

Columbus, O., March 4.—The legislative mill will begin today its steady grind of legislation, undisturbed by any measures of outstanding importance.

Long sessions are scheduled in both houses this afternoon to permit the leaders to clear the calendars. Although the Brown gas tax bill, one of the storm centers in the present session, is scheduled to appear on the senate calendar for passage this afternoon, the final battle on the measure is to be deferred until next week, Majority Leader Gardner said today.

Advocates of the gas tax said they had high hopes the measure will ultimately be whipped into shape which will be agreeable to the house before its final passage by the senate.

The Collister city home rule bill is expected to be sent to Governor Donahey today, after it is signed in the senate by president pro tem Gardner, presiding during the absence of Lieutenant Governor Lewis who is attending the inaugural ceremonies in Washington.

MARION ARTIST IS WINNER OF PLACE IN PITTSBURGH SALON

Photographer Is Granted Distinguished Honor With Picture

Marion, O., March 4.—A place on the lists of the twelfth annual Pittsburgh salon pictorial photography has been awarded Walter W. Davis, of Marion, by the jury of selection for photograph study made of a Marion girl—Miss Mary McAllister. A place on this list is said to be the highest honor obtainable in the realm of American photography. The only salon in the world which rates above that of Pittsburgh, is the London salon, London, England.

Miss McAllister, the subject, is a graduate of Harding High School, class of 1924. Last year she was elected May Queen, the highest beauty honor bestowed by the local school.

SIXTY KILLED

Rheinsdorf, Anholt, Germany, Mar. 4.—Sixty workers were killed today and many injured in an explosion which wrecked a factory where explosives were manufactured.

MAD AT HIMSELF

Pomeroy, March 4.—Dale Cottrill, 55, farmer, living at Point Rock, was jailed here on charges of being drunk, carrying a revolver and with shooting to wound. It was claimed Cottrill went into a small country store, near here, that a scrap resulted and that, during the excitement, he shot himself in a leg.

WEALTHY CLUBMAN COMMITS SUICIDE IN ROOM IN NEW YORK

Police Probe Started When Body of Morris Parker Is Found.

New York, March 4.—While the Bureau of Missing Persons conducted a quiet hunt for Morris K. Parker, 48, Vice-President of the Equitable Trust company, his body, with an ice pick imbedded in the heart, was found in a locked room of the exclusive University Club yesterday.

The verdict was suicide. The motive is believed to have been disclosed in two notes found near the body. One of these was addressed to Robert C. Adams of the Equitable Trust Company. The address upon the other was kept secret by police.

Officials of the trust company were quick to issue a statement that Parker's affairs as Vice President at the head of the bond department were in A-1 shape.

His widow, with whom he had occupied a large apartment, near Fifth avenue, while their daughter, Alice, 10 years old, attended a private school was prostrated.

The mystery surrounding the banker's death dates to yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. At that hour, according to Mrs. Parker, he left home, apparently in excellent spirits, saying he was going to the Wall Street offices of the trust company.

A phone call several hours later conveyed the information that he had not arrived at his office. After waiting several hours for further news of her husband Mrs. Parker notified police and the Bureau of Missing Persons.

NEW DISPOSAL PLANT

Elyria, March 4.—Preparatory to constructing a disposal plant ordered by the state, a survey of this city's sanitary and storm water sewer systems is being made. It is estimated that the new sewer and sewage system will cost $500,000.

TROUBLE FOR NOTHING

Defiance, March 4.—Returning from Long Beach, Calif., with F. R. McFarland, 23, accused of passing bad checks, Sheriff Miller locked his prisoner in the county jail from which he escaped on July 23, 1922, by digging through the concrete floor.

WEATHER FAIR
Washington, March 4.—Inauguration day dawned fair and cold in Washington.
A misty sun hung over the eastern horizon, but there was a hint of rain in the air from the rapidly rising temperature. The weather forecaster "hoped" there would be no rain, until the ceremonies incident to inducting President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes into office, are completed, but he was not certain.
A moderate breeze prevailed, just strong enough to keep the flags that flow from public buildings flapping lazily.

GENERAL X IS DISCLOSED AS ARMY OFFICIAL

Woman In Suit Startles British With Name of Dead Official

London, March 4.—Identity of the famous soldier named as "General X" was disclosed today.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun testified that she was General Sir John Cowan, quartermaster general of the British army during the world war.

The declaration was as startling to high army and social circles as her original charge against her husband that his promotion was gained from General X at the cost of the greatest sacrifice on the wife's part with her husband's knowledge and approval.

Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her former husband who has married again since their divorce, for money she claimed was advanced by her and for alleged breach of agreement that he would pay her a flat sum in lieu of alimony.

Colonel Dennistoun is now the husband of the former Lady Carnarvon, whose first husband started the search of King Tutankhamen's tomb. He is the stepfather of the present Countess Carnarvon, formerly Catherine Wendell of New York.

General Sir John Cowan, named by Mrs. Dennistoun as the famous soldier from who she sought favor for her husband, was responsible for the commissariat of the British army in the world war. He was credited with great service, but was penniless when he died in 1921 and his widow was forced to sell his medals in her efforts to raise funds.

EXTRA LEAF IN WHITE HOUSE TABLE

Family Party Gathers for Cal's Inaugural Ceremonies

Washington, March 4.—They had to put an extra leaf in the White House breakfast table this morning. There was quite a family party. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, of course, soon to drive a mile up Pennsylvania Avenue to sign a four year lease on the old John Adams homestead on the Potomac. Then there was Colonel John C. Coolidge of Plymouth, Vt., the president's father; Mrs. Almira Goodhue, of Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Coolidge's mother; John Coolidge, the president's only son; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stearns of Boston and a few other intimate friends.

This was a proud day for Frank W. Stearns, the man who is credited with "discovering" Calvin Coolidge and pushing him along the hard road to political success and national eminence. Reports that the President was "off of" Stearns because he confirmed the "hobby horse" story were apparently discredited by the Bostonian's presence at the White House today.

FOREIGN LOAN BAN LEAVES JAPAN OUT OF MONEY MARKET

Tentative Loans That Involve Millions Will Now Be Dropped

Tokio, March 4.—Japan today was virtually out of the international money market as a result of the recent government ban against foreign loans.

The departure of finance has warned private firms that the government does not approve of their borrowing abroad.

As a result of this policy it is expected that negotiations with American and European financiers for loans involving millions will immediately be dropped.

Honolulu, March 4.—Eight soldiers were in the hospital at Fort Schofield near here today as a result of an explosion of artillery shells which they were loading at the fort yesterday.

Those seriously injured were Privates John Mullen of Philadelphia, Leon Seano, of Steubenville, O., and Corporal Alfred Snyder, of Buffalo.

BORGLUM INDICTED ON THREE COUNTS BY GEORGIA JURY

Famous Sculptor Charged With Felony In One True Bill

Decatur, Ga., March 4.—Gutzon Borglum, noted sculptor today was indicted by the De Kalb County Grand Jury on three counts, charging him with malicious mischief and larceny from a house, following his destruction of working models for the Confederate memorial he had been carving on Stone Mountain near here.

Only one of the offenses—that of larceny, from a house—is a felony under Georgia law.

'SUGAR CAMPS OPEN

Bucyrus, March 4.—Sugar camps are being started in the maple groves of Crawford County. It is anticipated that maple sugar making will be in full swing within a day or so.

PARTY LEADERS GAIN VICTORY IN PASSAGE OF APPROPRIATION BILL

Victory Marks Defeat of Western Farm Bloc Using Opposition As Weapon To Force A Special Session.

Washington, March 4.—President Coolidge today signed the legislative appropriation bill carrying salary increases for members of Congress.

Washington, March 4.—The world court issue was flatly repudiated by the senate today when it voted to "table" a motion to consider a resolution providing for American adherence to the international tribunal.

The issue was raised by Senator King, Democrat of Utah, who offered a motion that the senate consider the adherence resolution in executive session.

Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, irreconcilable leader immediately moved to table King's motion and the senate overwhelmingly voted to do so. No record vote was taken.

Washington, March 4.—Wielding the party lash, administration leaders today jammed through the dying congress the $54,000,000 second deficiency appropriation bill which had been used as a weapon in the senate by the western farm bloc in its efforts to force a special session for the consideration of farm relief legislation.

Passage of the bill removed the last obstacle to an adjournment of congress until next December.

As passed, the bill was stripped of all public buildings appropriations but carried large sums to meet debts incurred by various government departments during the current fiscal year.

This appropriation, necessary to keep the government out of debt during the present fiscal year, was the weapon in the hands of a small bloc and all authors suffering alike.

SIMPLE RITES TAKE PLACE OF FORMER DISPLAY

Lack of Ostentation Marks Oath Taking Of Coolidge

Washington, March 4.—Casting aside the ostentatious display and glittering pageantry of other years, Calvin Coolidge bared his head to the chill March wind, on the plaza of the capitol today and in one of the simplest inaugural ceremonies on record, renewed the oath of office that he originally took nineteen months ago in the lamp-lit room of his father's Vermont farmhouse under tragic and dramatic circumstances.

A handful of hastily-garbed, awe-struck relatives were the sole witnesses of that other ceremony nineteen months ago, but today there were cheering thousands in the multitude that looked on and acclaimed him—completing a cycle of events unparalleled in the history of the Republic.

A few moments after he had repeated the words of the oath intoned by the black-robed chief justice, Calvin Coolidge squared his shoulders, faced the panoramic sea of humanity in front of him and proclaimed to the country and to the world, the basic principles which will guide him in the conduct of the nation's affairs for the next four years.

Those, he said, would embrace peace with all the world and business prosperity at home.

His inaugural speech, short, in keeping with the whole ceremony, was a calm, dispassionate review of existing conditions, delivered by a calm, dispassionate man.

While the ceremonies that inducted Mr. Coolidge into his high office today were the simplest in many decades, not even his orders and wishes could keep the occasion from being a gala one.

On the vast plaza in front of the capitol, a crowd of scores of thousands were assembled.

The marine band, resplendent in scarlet coats and much gold braid, was placed directly beneath the president's stand.

Estimates of the number of people within range of the president's voice, carried through the loud speakers, varied widely, but among the lowest was 100,000.

The proceedings were slightly delayed by the slowest of the distinguished guests to leave the senate chamber and their seats out in the cold March sunshine.

A few minutes before one o'clock the members of the supreme court of the United States, led by Chief Justice Taft, walked down the center steps, raising the first scattering applause.

Mrs. Coolidge in gray and Mrs. Dawes in blue, next appeared and the applause increased.

Immediately behind them came the President and vice president.

The band struck up: "Hail to the Chief," and the military snapped to salute.

While a breathless hush fell over the great assemblage there boomed the voice of Chief Justice Taft, clear as a bell.

"Do you solemnly swear to the President's 'I do' could scarcely be heard.

He leaned forward slightly, and kissed the open Bible—the same one which he used as a small boy in learning to read.

He pronounced that oath at 1:02 P. M.

Then without more ado, he turned, faced his audience and began his speech.

His voice carried very well to every section of the extensive concourse and he was accorded perfect attention.

He delivered his address from manuscript, bareheaded and overcoated.

FIRECRACKER CASE

Shadyside, March 4.—An explosion, resulting when Fred Venham, local youngster, tossed a lighted firecracker into a gas regulator on Fourth of July last, is the basis for a $300 damage suit, on file in the Belmont County Common Pleas Court, against the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company.

The petition asserted that when the Venham boy threw the firecracker away it fell into the open top of the company's control device, the resulting explosion injuring him.

COOLIDGE AND DAWES BECOME NATION'S HEADS

"This Administration has come into power with a very clear and definite mandate from the people."

"The expression of the popular will in favor of maintaining our constitutional guarantees was overwhelming and decisive. There was such a manifestation of faith in the integrity of the courts that we can consider that issue rejected for some time to come. Likewise, the policy of public ownership of railroads and certain electric utilities met with unmistakable defeat."

The President chose to divide his brief address into two parts. He spoke first of America's relations to the rest of the world, and he declared that "we can best serve our own country and discharge our obligations to humanity by being openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously American."

AMERICA'S DUTY

It is America's duty, being strong, he declared, to set the world an example in moderation of armament, and in the spirit of fair play and justice, to rest her cause before the world on arbitration and reason rather than force. He specifically endorsed the conference idea in settling international problems, and he hinted that conferences can be expected under his administration.

In conformity with this principle, he said, America should adhere to the World Court, as a practical exhibition of American willingness to subscribe to justiciable procedure in the settling of international disputes.

But, he declared, the United States can contribute most to the peace and security and stability of the world by "maintaining our position of political detachment and independence."

"This position," he said, "should be made more and more clear in our relations with all foreign countries. We are at peace with all of them. Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist."

"We have made great contributions to the settlement of contentions differences in both Europe and Asia. But there is a very definite point beyond which we cannot go. We can only help those who help themselves."

From this dealing with international affairs on a broad, general plane, the President turned to home problems. These he dealt with in the same manner, stressing always the need for less taxes, more enforcement of existing laws and non-interference by the Government with legitimate business.

The collection of more taxes than are absolutely required to run an orderly, efficient Government, he said, was simply a "species of legalized larceny."

"The time is arriving," he declared, "when we can have further tax reduction, when we must have tax reform."

"The method of raising revenues ought not to impede business, it ought to encourage it. I am opposed to extremely high rates, because they produce little or no revenue, because they are bad for the country and finally, because they are wrong."

"We cannot finance the country, we cannot improve social conditions through any system of injustice, even if we attempt to inflict it on the rich. CORRECT COURSE

"The wise and correct course to follow in taxation and all other economic legislation is NOT to destroy those who have already secured success, but to create conditions under which everyone will have a better chance to be successful."

"The verdict of the country has been given on this question. We shall do well to heed it."

Turning from taxation to law enforcement, Mr. Coolidge appealed to the nation for better observance of existing law. While he did not mention specifically the prohibition laws, it was evident that he had these in mind.

"The first rule for the guidance of a citizen is obedience to law," he said. LAW VIOLATORS

"While there may be those of high intelligence who violate the law at times, the barbarian and the defective always violate it. Those who disregard the rule of society are treading the way that leads back to the jungle."

The President terminated his brief address with a plea for toleration—"the fundamental precept of liberty." "Here stands our country," he concluded, "an example of tranquillity at home, a patron of tranquillity abroad. Here stands its Government, aware of its might but obedient to its conscience."

"America seeks no earthly empire built on blood and force."

"No ambition, no temptation lures her to thought of foreign dominions. The legions which she sends forth are armed, not with the sword but with the cross. The higher state to which she seeks the allegiance of all mankind is not of human but of divine origin."

"She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

Vice-President of the United States

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES G. DAWES

General Charles G. Dawes one of the most picturesque figures in American politics became the thirtieth vice-president of the United States Wednesday. Politicians wonder if his colorful personality can be submerged as presiding officer of the senate or as Tom Marshall called it "sitting in the Cave of the Winds". Dawes sprang into prominence when, as purchasing agent for the American Expeditionary Forces during the war, he was called on the stand by the congressional committee investigating war expenditures, and shocked the committee by an explosive outburst of profanity in which "Hell and Maria" was a featured expression. He awoke next day to find himself famous overnight. Since then he served as director of the budget under President Harding and was head of the commission which prepared the Dawes reparations plan. His selection at the Cleveland convention came after both Borah and Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois turned down the nomination. Chairman Butler sent word to the convention floor that the nominee was to be Hoover but Dawes' friends crossed his plans and the fiery general was nominated on the first ballot.

and Jesse and Bruce of Jamestown. Arrangements for the funeral service have not been completed.

JAMESTOWN

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. C. M. Thompson was the hostess to the members of the Advance Club. Responses to roll call, "Current Events." The topic for discussion was "Nature's Lovers in Literature." The program was led by Mrs. L. S. Farquhar. Interesting papers were prepared by different members. Mrs. J. A. Bevan, "Burroughs;" Mrs. F. W. Ogan, "Walt Whitman;" Mrs. J. W. Benigar, "Burbank;" Mrs. J. C. Lackey, "Thoreau;" Mrs. C. M. Thompson, "Gene Porter;" Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, "Helen H. Jackson."

The Misses May and Sarah Harper will entertain the members of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon for the March meeting. The devotion topic is "The Water of Life," which will be conducted by Mrs. Frank Doster. The study book this year, portrays the conditions which exist in China. The topic of the program is "A Strong Nation, China," of which Mrs. J. A. Bevan will be the leader, assisted by Miss Emma Blaine. Mrs. M. H. Klatt will have a reading, "Glimpses of China Village Life." Mrs. Warren Collette will have charge of the mystery box.

The citizens of Jamestown are greatly elated over the transfer of what has been known as the Trebeln Elevator, which has recently been purchased by C. E. and C. T. Vandervoort of Yellow Springs. Tentative plans are under way, to remodel and equip the building for a cannery factory. The cannery of corn will be the leading feature of the industry this year, which is now interesting the farmers through this section. This building was erected many years ago by Mr. Trebeln of Trebeln Station, who operated it very successfully as a grain elevator for years. Since he sold the property it has changed owners several times, and was sold to the Vandervoort firm by C. E. Loyd of Washington C. H., who now owns and operates the Jamestown grain elevator. The building is situated a short distance from the latter, and has been used as storage rooms by the grain elevator for the past few years.

Mrs. Robert Harmount (Cleo Zeller), has returned to her home at Delaware, after a two weeks' visit in Jamestown.

Mrs. L. L. Gray will entertain the members of the Women's Missionary Society at the parsonage on Friday, which will be an all-day meeting. After the program, the time will be occupied with sewing on comforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thuma have had for their guests, Mrs. Nye Gregg and son, Robert of Washington C. H. Mr. Harry Lieurance and family are moving from Springfield into the property of Miss Viola Haines on West Main Street. Mr. Lieurance is manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Grocery Store here.

Attorney W. A. Paxson who has been confined to his home for some time, suffering from a stroke of paralysis, is now able to be on the street with the aid of a cane.

The Rev. L. L. Gray gave a profitable and instructive talk to the pupils of the high school on Monday morning.

Mrs. Salona Collins has returned to her home at Kennard, after a visit with her sisters, Mrs. Volney Conklin, Mrs. Charles Glass and Mrs. O. O. Breakfield.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Farquhar have had for their guests, Mrs. C. W. Acomb of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Acomb and daughters, the Misses Louise and Virginia and son, Earl of Dayton.

Mrs. Campbell Stirling who has spent several weeks at the home of her brother, N. N. Hunter, having been called here on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. L. C. Hunter, is leaving on Wednesday for her home at Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Helen George who are students at Oxford

came home on Friday and remained until Sunday.

This is moving week and our folks not only changing locations in Jamestown, but in the country adjacent.

Father William P. O'Connor, a former pastor of the Jamestown St. Augustine Church, comes from Cincinnati on Wednesday evening the 4th and will give the sermon for the congregation. This is the beginning of a series of lectures, which Father Edward McInity has planned for the Lenten season.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Walthall and Mrs. James Johnson spent Saturday in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Russell are moving from the apartment of Mrs. A. G. Paulin to a farm near Waynesville.

Charles G. Hatch is excavating for a new building, and when completed will form a business block for Mr. Hatch. The Bell Telephone Company will occupy space in the new building, when the plant here is remodeled it is said. The other offices will be taken also, as soon as they are finished.

The members of the Community Service Club, will hold two provision markets, in order to replenish their treasury. The first on Saturday morning the 7th. The folks east of Limestone Street will be the donors for this exchange. On the 21st the west end will contribute the provisions.

Mr. Hamma Bland who sold his farm near New Jasper to Benton Shaw, is moving with his family to Jamestown and will occupy the property of Mrs. Malissa Ary on Clemens Avenue.

GEORGE W. LEVECK DIES IN JAMESTOWN

George W. Leveck, 74, Civil War veteran, died at his home in Jamestown Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. Death followed an attack of acute indigestion which he suffered Monday evening.

Mr. Leveck had lived in Jamestown twenty-five years, moving his family there from Lumberton. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and four sons. They are: Mrs. George Slusher, of near New Jasper; Mrs. Otto Deubner, Sidney; William Leveck, Columbus; Arthur of Xenia.

DANGEROUS TO TRIFLE WITH A COUGH OR COLD

Neglected coughs or colds are liable to result in more serious illness. Don't trifle with them. They show that your system is under-nourished, not resisting common ailments as it should.

Coco Cod, a new medical food composed of cod liver oil with the flavor of rich cocoa, is being prescribed by physicians and recommended by teachers and scientists. Coco Cod arms you with strong blood, iron nerves and abundant energy. It soothes the irritated membranes and builds up a reserve force of vitality that makes you feel alive in every fibre. Children and adults who shrink from ordinary cod liver oil preparations, relish Coco Cod's delightful cocoa taste and thrive mightily on its rich A, B, C and D vitamins. All good druggists have Coco Cod, the new, easy-to-take cod liver oil with the taste of rich cocoa. Caution: Coco Cod is sold only in liquid form, in 12-ounce bottles, never in tablets. Best results are obtained with pure Norwegian cod liver oil in original liquid state. In Coco Cod you have the benefit of the finest, purest oil with the taste of rich chocolate.

Coolidge Highlights

Washington, March 4—President Coolidge's brief inaugural address, one of the shortest on record, bristled with epigrams today.

Some of the more pungent follow:

"We can best serve our country and humanity by being Americans."

"If we expect others to rely on our fairness and justice we must show that we rely on fairness and justice."

"We can only help those who help themselves."

"With us a treaty of peace means peace, and a treaty of amity means amity."

"Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist."

"There is no salvation in a narrow and bigoted partisanship."

"Economy is idealism in its most practical form."

"The wisest and soundest method of solving our tax problem is through economy."

"The collection of any taxes not absolutely required is only a species of legalized larceny."

"Under this Republic the rewards of industry belong to those who earn them."

"This country believes in prosperity."

The result of economic dissipation to a nation is always moral decay."

"Our problem is not to secure new advantages, but to maintain those which we already possess."

"In a Republic the first rule for guidance of the citizen is obedience to law."

"While there may be those of high intelligence who violate the law at times, the barbarian and the defective always violate it."

"The essence of a Republic is representative government."

"The fundamental precept of liberty is toleration."

MRS. COOLIDGE WEARS JOSEENA GOWN

Washington, March 4.—When Grace Coolidge rode down Pennsylvania Avenue this morning with her distinguished husband, she probably started a rush upon modistes and dressmakers that will last for several days.

All because the first inaugural costume represented the ultra-ultra in the latest style.

Her dress was fashioned of "joseena." Its color was "moonstone."

For the benefit of the novitiate, "joseena" is a new cloth, something of a cross between duvelyn and cash cloth with a dull finish.

"Moonstone" is the latest color to be evolved by those who prognosticate the fashions. It is a grey, somewhat darker than pearl, and with a warmer appearance.

The costume was an "ensemble" with a bodice of crepe de chine, and a collar of grey fox on the coat. Silver embroidery embellished the coat from shoulder to hem.

Mrs. Coolidge's hat was a modish spring model of straw, high crown and drooping, narrow brim, with a burnt-goose band.

Gray slippers completed the outfit.

NEW CONGRESS COMES INTO EXISTENCE AS OLD BODY RETIRES

Washington, March 4.—The sixty-ninth congress came into existence at 12:17 today when the senate convened in special session in response to a proclamation by President Coolidge.

The president, members of the house of representatives, the supreme court, the foreign diplomats and hundreds of invited guests attended the first session, which lasted only long enough for the new vice president, Charles Gates Dawes to deliver his inaugural address and to swear in new senators.

The next session will be held late today or tomorrow to consider executive nominations and treaties held over from the last session. These include the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren, of Michigan, as attorney general, the fight over which is expected to be the most important in the senate's first session.

Thirty-two senators were sworn in when the new session started. Of this number, twenty-two were members of the last senate, while ten displaced senators defeated last year.

Twenty were Republicans and twelve were Democrats, the new senate lining up with a substantial Republican majority.

MITCHELL WILL BE DROPPED AS CHIEF OF ARMY AIR FORCE

Washington March 4.—Brigadier General William Mitchell, about whom the air power controversy has revolved for some time, will not be continued as Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service when his present appointment expires March 26.

It is learned authoritatively that the next Assistant Army Air Chief will be elected from a brief list of names now before Secretary John W. Weeks, and that this list does not include General Mitchell, who has been an ardent advocate of unification of the Government Air Service, despite Administration opposition.

It was made known today that the nomination for the place would be sent by President Coolidge to the special session of the Senate, which is called for noon tomorrow, and that it would conform to any recommendation Secretary Weeks might make.

Failure of General Mitchell to receive the appointment which carries the rank of Brigadier General, will return him automatically to the rank of Colonel.

The brief list now before Secretary Weeks includes eligibles recommended by Major General Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service; Major General John L. Hines, Chief of Staff, and others whose advice Mr. Weeks has sought in his efforts to find a man whose qualifications of the assignment cannot be questioned.

ADDRESSES FOLLOW DINNER AT CHURCH

The Rev. Ralph E. Stewart and O. S. Hubbard both of Attica, N. Y., addressed members of the First Reformed Church, at the informal social and inspirational meeting, at the church, Tuesday evening.

The talks followed a covered dish dinner, attended by about fifty members of the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Stewart gave a talk on evangelism among the laity and Mr. Hubbard talked on the importance of evangelism from the layman's standpoint.

The meeting was one of a series of preparatory meetings to be held preceding a series of special services, April 10 to 25. Special meetings will be held each Wednesday evening, until the meetings, in charge of the Rev. M. Stewart, begin, according to the announcement of the Rev. D. A. Sellers, pastor.

HOUSE BURNS

A vacant house owned by the Osborn Removal Company, in Osborn, was damaged by fire Tuesday afternoon, but the blaze was extinguished before heavy loss was sustained.

The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stove, a number of workmen having built a fire in the place.

DAWES SHATTERS ANCIENT CUSTOMS AT FIRST SESSION

Washington, March 4.—Charles Gates "Hell and Mariah" Dawes, newly installed vice president of the United States, completely shattered custom and precedent in his first day as presiding officer of the senate.

After lambasting senate rules, Dawes stepped out of the quiet role which had been carefully prepared for him and took absolute charge of the inaugural ceremonies.

It is the custom for senators-elect to take the oath in groups of five. After the first five had been administered, Dawes smashed all traditions by ordering all the other senators-elect to come to the well of the senate and take the oath collectively.

After the clerk had read the names of the second group of five, Dawes arose abruptly from his chair, shouting:

"Call them all, bring them all up." Senate attaches were flabbergasted. A great roar of laughter and applause went up as the senators-elect crowded to the front of the rostrum.

After administering the oath collectively, Dawes again upsetting the plans, announced: "The senate will go to the east front of the capitol." It had been arranged that the senate, the house and all other branches of the government should file out individually as they came in.

Dawes thus cut the inaugural ceremonies so short that the senators-elect were signing their names to the senate roster ten minutes after the audience left the chamber to witness President Coolidge's inauguration in the capitol plaza.

His fame for abruptness, audacity and bluntness in private life, Dawes carried with him today as the senate's presiding officer. Throughout his speech he fairly shouted as he struck home a point he wished emphasized. He punched the air with his hands, and stamped his feet, roving from side to side, over the rostrum.

The audience both on the floor and in the gallery warmed up rapidly to Dawes and loudly applauded. His hard hitting gestures provoked great laughter.

The dignity, solemnity and quietness with which the inauguration started, gave way as soon as Dawes took the chair. He snapped up the proceedings and it seemed for all as if the senate were in the midst of one of its most hectic and wildest sessions.

If his acts today can be taken as a criterion, the senate in the next four years will travel with all the speed of a limited express. Dawes tolerated no delay, whatever in the ceremonies today.

First and Second Ladies of Land

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE & MRS. C. G. DAWES

Washington, March 4.—A dual inauguration is transpiring in Washington today.

Upon the first are the eyes of the world. Calvin Coolidge is launching an administration in his own name.

Its sequel is continuance for four years more the reign of Grace Goodhue Coolidge over the affairs of the Executive Mansion. Not so important to the Nation, perhaps, but of more than passing interest to millions of women.

The Executive is assuming formally continued leadership of some 110,000,000 Americans. The First Lady is assuming formally continued authority of the daily functions in that famous three-story structure known as the White House, with its twenty-odd rooms and its twenty-five servants.

DUTIES DIFFER

Duties of the Presidential couple differ greatly, but in their relative proportions they are equally exacting. Mrs. Coolidge, supervising and directing the thousand-and-one little events incident to each day in the Executive Mansion—and she does exactly that—may be compared to the head of a small business concern.

And in the nineteen months she has shared the Nation's highest office with her famous husband, Mrs. Coolidge has gained the reputation of being a most efficient mistress of the White House. Her fame as a hostess and a home maker has become widespread.

Those under her say she has earned it and such a statement means much to persons daily brought in touch with White House attaches.

There have been First Ladies in the past, outwardly gracious and lovable. But from within the Mansion have come whisperings of overbearing dominance, of thoughtlessness, of inefficiency and carelessness.

Not so of Mrs. Coolidge. She has won herself a warm spot in the hearts of her servants and they, who come daily in intimate contact with her, should know best of her true qualities.

NO SERVANTS BEFORE

Grace Coolidge has not always known the joys of luxury. For sixteen years she and the President lived in half of a two-family house that rented for $30 a month. It is said she never had any servants of any kind before coming to the White House.

To the manner born, however, she has held forth in the White House. The receptions of the past two winters have been the highlights of American social life. Her more informal teas, garden parties and "at homes" have become the feminine mecca.

Withal, in the past year and seven months, Mrs. Coolidge has shown herself to be most democratic. One is apt to see her almost any afternoon on the streets of Washington, window-shopping and generally enjoying herself thoroughly mingling unrecognized among the bustling thousands of Government workers. Seldom does she employ the White House limousines for her daily outings; for the most part she walks.

A marked consideration is shown by whom she comes in contact on her shopping tours. Last year at Christmas time each of the thirty or more clerks who assisted her in her Yuletide shopping received a beautiful bouquet of White House roses on Christmas Day.

In the marriage of the President and Mrs. Coolidge is found a delightful human interest story, bearing directly upon the President's political fortunes. As a direct result of his marriage Mr. Coolidge sustained the only defeat in running for public office he ever experienced. The story is this:

ON HIS HONEYMOON

Some little time before the wedding plans materialized Coolidge then just becoming known in Northampton, Massachusetts, filed his candidacy for a minor office of the town. Two opponents filed against him and the fight was on.

Then the President decided to get married, did so, and departed on his honeymoon in the heat of the campaign. He returned a week before election, but the damage had been done, his opponents had succeeded in killing off his chances and he experienced his first and last political defeat.

Grace Goodhue, at the time she met the President, was a teacher of the blind. Their engagement and marriage was all the more surprising to their friends because the two represented types almost diametrically opposite. Mrs. Coolidge was gay and vivacious, she loved dancing and sports. The President was taciturn and reticent, he preferred solitude and quiet. The difference still exists.

But one thing has marred the events of the past four years that saw her husband rise dramatically to the highest office of the land. That came last summer in the death of her younger son, Calvin. Never was there a more sorrowful spectacle than that which occurred in the little cross-roads cemetery far up in the Green Mountains of Vermont when young Calvin was buried.

But Mrs. Coolidge still has her older boy, John, now a freshman at Amherst—him, and consoling memories of that young counterpart of her distinguished husband who brought a Nation's sorrow to her feet.

HOLD ONTO YOUR HAT

Did you ever stop to think that winds do many things besides blowing your hat down the street, tearing down signs and trees and unroofing buildings? Winds carry the climate of the ocean to the land and of the land to the ocean. They transport solid material in enormous quantities from one part of the earth to another.

Farmers must often fight them with windbreaks and other expedients lest their fields be buried in drifting sands and their crops suffer the parching effects of "wind-burn." In the temperate zones winter is in general windier than summer on account of the greater contrasts of temperature that prevail in the cold season between higher and lower altitude. This effect lags in some regions into the early spring. March measures up to its proverbial reputation over the greater portion of the United States east of the Mississippi river where statistics show a greater total wind movement for this month than for any other in the year.

Wind velocity is today accurately measured by the use of instruments, not only aboard ocean vessels but also by weather bureau stations and aviation fields as the true facts regarding winds are even more important today to the aviator than to the captain of one of the giant passenger ships which plow the mountainous waves of the Atlantic or Pacific. Never-the-less the pedestrian on a March day is not possessed of wind registration figures—so hold onto your hat this month.

SENDS CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

A GREAT deal of attention has been given by big corporations in recent years to welfare and educational work, not only among their own employes but also for the benefit of the public in general. One of the most recent specific instances of this interest on the part of big organizations is the policy which has been adopted by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad towards stimulating the interest of the farm boys and girls in the things of the farm.

Just last week the officials of this transportation company announced that it will award two scholarships of $100.00 each in this state to the boy or girl who most efficiently completes his or her project in agricultural club work. The club member may enter any type of club work recognized and supervised by the State University Agricultural Extension Service, such as Corn clubs, Pig clubs, Potato clubs, Sewing clubs, canning clubs, Poultry clubs, Calf clubs, and so forth. Each winner of a scholarship will have the alternative of using the scholarship for educational purposes at any recognized college or university in the state, or in defraying the expenses of an educational trip to Washington, D. C.

The same railroad has awarded 37 scholarships to date, 24 of which the winners chose to use for educational purposes at their respective universities, while 13 chose the educational trip. Of the 24 who elected the scholarships for college educational purposes 12 are now in college in the states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

This kind of work on the part of big corporations will most certainly tend to produce more efficient farmers and farm wives in the future.

PROMISE

Spring's coming on again.
Snow's almost gone again.
Tulips will blossom soon.
Pansies are due;
But a few days and then
Sunshine will blaze and then
Nature will robe all her
Children anew.

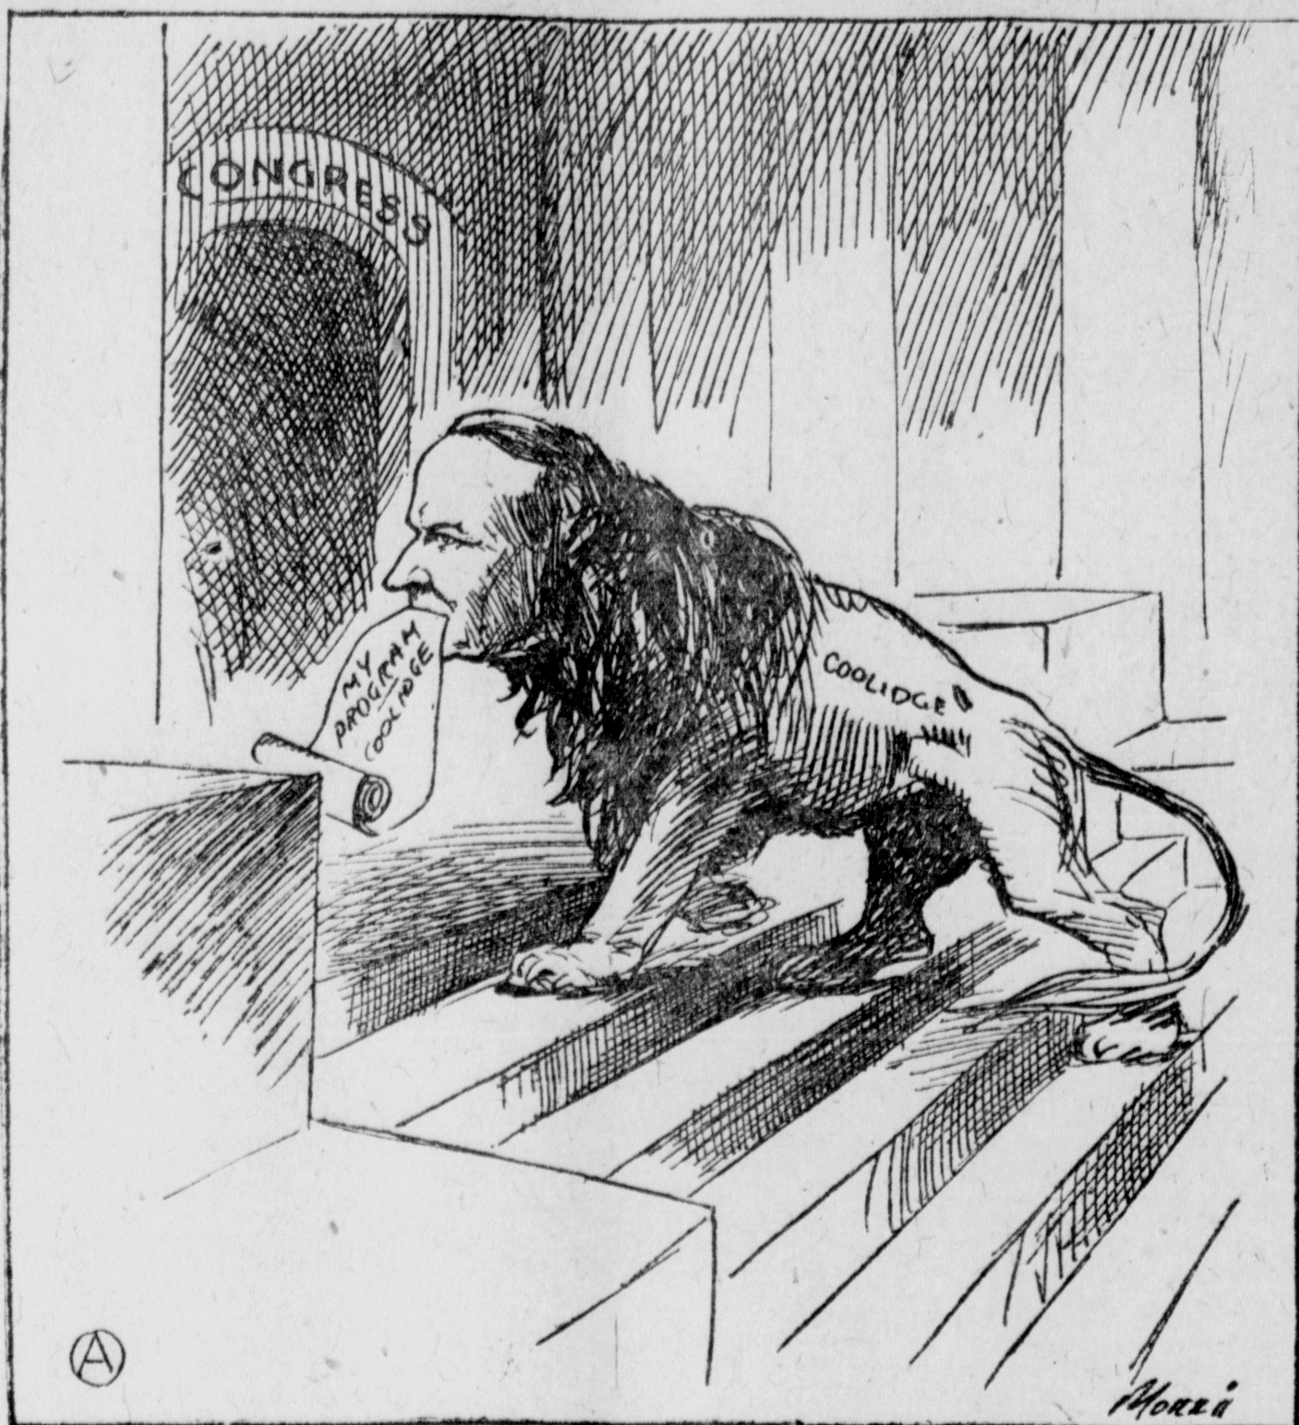

Skies will be clean again.
Trees will be green again.
Rivers and creeks will set out
For the sea.
Robins will sing again,
Buds bring again
Hits they can use for the nest
In the tree.

Dark is the sky today
Now where they lie today
Barren and bleak is the world
Which we know.
Think of the slumbering things,
Past all our numbering things
Think of the blades of grass
Waiting to grow!

Under the earth they lie,
Splendors uncounted and
Treasures untold;
Nowhere a space so bare,
Nowhere a place so bare,
But hides some loveliness
Soon to unfold.

Bright to the eyes again,
So as they rise again
We from our winter-bleak
Weather-worn clay
Surely shall grow again—
Life's joy to know again—
Spirits as fair as the
Petals of May.

When the housekeeper wishes to serve an unusually heavy meal, she is wise to plan for one lemon-flavored dish. For the tart, refreshing taste of lemon seems to lighten the meal in the same way that a crisp salad does. Try the following recipes:

Lemon Fruit Cocktail: Dice the pulp of one large lemon and mix with it the diced pulp of one-half orange; add one-half cup of diced pineapple, one-half cup of chopped canned cherries and sliced banana. Sweeten to suit the individual taste, and divide into cocktail glasses, adding enough of the mixed juices from these fruits barely to cover.
Lemon Tapioca Pudding: Put one-half cup of granulated tapioca, and one cup of granulated sugar and two cups of cold water into the top of a double boiler and cook, over simmering water, until the tapioca is clear and transparent, stirring frequently. Then add three tablespoons of lemon juice, and one-fourth teaspoon of grated lemon rind one two or three minutes longer. Cool, and when it begins to thicken fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs and beat well. Turn the mixture into a serving dish and set aside till chilled and firm. Serve with an ordinary sauce made of the two left-over egg yolks.

Lemon Sponge Cakes: Beat three

BUDDY ROOSEVELT

In "WALLOPING WALLACE"

With Violet La Plante

Violet La Plante, featured as the heroine, does some sensational riding on a peppy western broncho that stamps her as a leading exponent of the drama of the wide open spaces.

It's a picture that will more than satisfy film fans, who like their thrills fast and furious and dangerous.

A Tuxedo 2 reel comedy featuring Al St. John. Plenty of good hearty laughs and thrills.

THURSDAY NIGHT

"IS LOVE EVERYTHING"

With Alma Rubens, Frank Mayo, H. B. Warner, Walter McGrail and Lilyan Tashman

She trembled in the cabin, while on deck above her, brutal men fought for her possession!

What a situation! It's in this picture. Length six reels.

"BATHING BEAUTIES AND BIG BOOBS"

A Larry Semon thrilling comedy.

Today's Talks

LURE

All of us are led forward or backward by some lure: Gold, love, success, beauty, earned solitude.

To me the leadership of beauty seems to outlive all else. For beauty brings nothing but happiness and it soothes and sweetens every inch of life's way.

Just imagine what a world this would be without the lure of beauty. Take away the flowers, the green grass, the trees, all color, all kindness and nobility from people's hearts, all touch of beauty from the handiwork of men's hands, and what would we do? Every drop of incentive for life would be gone.

Surround yourself with beautiful things, think beautiful thoughts, do beautiful acts and you cannot help but be happy. For these things are the very atoms of happiness.

The lure of love and beauty will lead you right. The lure of mere money, vain glory, and false attraction will only accumulate pain and sorrow for you.

If a man is making much money

how very difficult it is to get him to talk or think of anything else. Yet how cheap and material is the fight for gold alone! Even high intelligence will not be ensnared. In fact intelligence understands how futile is the task of mere money making.

I like the lure behind the love of books, always leading you fresh minds and aspiring moods. How the lure of new countries grips.

The introduction of the automobiles has poured beauty into millions of lives. It has taken people into the hills and vast open spaces and stirred minds that for years had become dormant and too easily satisfied with their surroundings.

Then there is the lure of loyalty—binding friends together and making human beings assets to each other.

HUGHES CASE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT BY SERVICE BOARD

The State Civil Service Commission which heard charges against W. M. Hughes, farmer at the Greene County Infirmary Tuesday, took its decision under advisement after the conclusion of evidence at 4:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

About eighteen witnesses were introduced by both sides during the day, in the order of their convenience. Charges against Hughes were filed by D. E. Crow, superintendent of the Infirmary, and allege incompetency of the defendant because of his advanced age.

In his answer to these charges, Hughes contended lack of success in farming operations at the institution was due to the in-expert advice of Crow and that the charges filed against him were in retaliation for the fact that Hughes testified against the superintendent recently at the hearing at which he was vindicated of charges brought against him in an ouster effort by former county commissioners.

The prosecution, represented by J. C. Marshall, prosecuting attorney, claimed to score points in Tuesday afternoon's testimony by showing that Hughes was born in 1857, which would make him 68 years of age in the face of his own sworn statement that he is only 63. The prosecution dwelt upon the discrepancy in the statement of the defendant and the records.

The prosecution also claimed a victory in the testimony of Herman Favey, president of the board of county commissioners, who admitted commissioners had discussed the fact that Hughes was growing incompetent and talked of discharging him a year ago, before any charges had been filed against Crow or Hughes. The commission is expected to render a decision from Columbus within a few days.

AUTOISTS ESCAPE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Spahr, Springfield Pike, narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident, on that pike, early Wednesday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Spahr were coming to Xenia, and attempted to pass the truck of the Frank B. Scott Tinning Shop, this city, on the road. The truck was loaded with a long ladder, and when the machines were passing each other, the ladder was swerved and struck the Spahr car.

The impact demolished the top of the machine occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Spahr but they escaped unhurt.

GIRLS OF ANTIOCH BEAT CINCINNATI

The Antioch College girls' basketball team defeated the speedy University of Cincinnati five by the score of 24 to 19, on the local floor Monday night. The game established the Antioch squad as one of the best girls' teams in the state.

The game was a thriller from start to finish, A. Dawson and C. Dawson playing stellar roles. The two girls scored all the points registered by Antioch between them.

YELLOW SPRINGS

The Antioch Players will present two one-act folk dramas, "The Wonder Hat" and "The Lord's Prayer," in the Opera House, Friday evening. These plays will be given for the benefit of the Yellow Springs Library.

The Social Service League will hold an all day sewing party at the home of Mrs. D. A. Brewer, Wednesday. Each member will invite a guest and bring a covered dish.

For the first time in history the Girls' Dormitory of Antioch College, was open to the public for inspection Sunday afternoon. The faculty members and many friends from the village were entertained by the girls. The dormitory with its hardwood floor, beautiful parlors and bright draperies made a very attractive picture. The girls received the visitors and escorted them through the building.

Mrs. George Drake was hostess to a number of friends Friday when she served a three course luncheon to the following ladies, Mrs. Elmer Drake, Mrs. P. M. Stewart, Mrs. Jack Petrie, Mrs. Isabel Kelly, Mrs. C. C. Stephenson, Mrs. C. M. Zeller, Mrs. S. F. Weston, Mrs. Philip Nash, Mrs. A. E. Morgan, Mrs. J. M. The Zion Baptist Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Lucy Paine, East Market Street, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah Weaver is confined to her home with a lam limb.

Mr. George Valentine, of Taylor Street, is on the sick list, with grip.

Mr. Payne Jameson of East Second Street, is seriously ill at his home.

REMOVAL OF WRIGHT FIELD DEFINITELY BLOCKED FOR TIME

The senate passed the second deficiency bill Monday virtually as it passed the house without including an item for funds for the removal of the air intermediate depot from Fairfield to Middletown, Pa., which means that there will be transfer this year.

It was proposed by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, to move Wilbur Wright Field to Middletown for purposes of economy. Activities of citizens of Fairfield and Osborn aided by Congressman Charles Brand of Urbana, and Attorney Morris Rice, of Osborn, caused its postponement.

Air service officials who had decided on the move declared Tuesday that they would renew their request at the next session of congress. An appeal for funds to begin the removal was stricken out by the house appropriations sub-committee on arguments presented by Congressman Brand.

FORMER RESIDENT OF COUNTY DIES

John W. Durnbaugh, 53, former Greene County, member of the firm of John W. Durnbaugh and Son, dealers in coal and builders' supplies, died Tuesday night at 10:15 o'clock at his residence, at Barr's Station, on the Xenia Pike.

Mr. Durnbaugh was born in Greene County, where he resided until twenty-five years ago when he went to Dayton to live. Prior to entering the coal and building supply business, five years ago he was postal clerk in the Dayton postoffice for twenty years.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Katherine and a son, Glennard. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

ALL PARENTS HAVE COMPLIED NOW WITH VACCINATION ORDER

The fifth parent who refused to comply with the vaccination order for all children, issued by school officials, and who with others, was threatened with being charged with contributing to the dependency of the children, followed the path of least resistance, Tuesday and the children were vaccinated and are now back in school.

After the discovery by Probation Officer J. E. Watt that five parents had refused to comply with the vaccination order and were keeping their children from school, court officials threatened to file affidavits, charging the parents with contributing to the dependency of their children.

If the action had been followed, the parents would be fined or jailed. The drastic threats of the officials resulted in the parents complying with the law.

LUMBERTON

The Ladies Aid Society met with Mrs. Lena Tarps Wednesday afternoon, March 4.

Delbert Hiatt, the thirteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hiatt was operated on for mastoid trouble, Tuesday morning at the Espey Hospital. Dr. Shields performed the operation.

MODISH MITZI—Several Views of an Interesting Subject

By JAY V. JAY

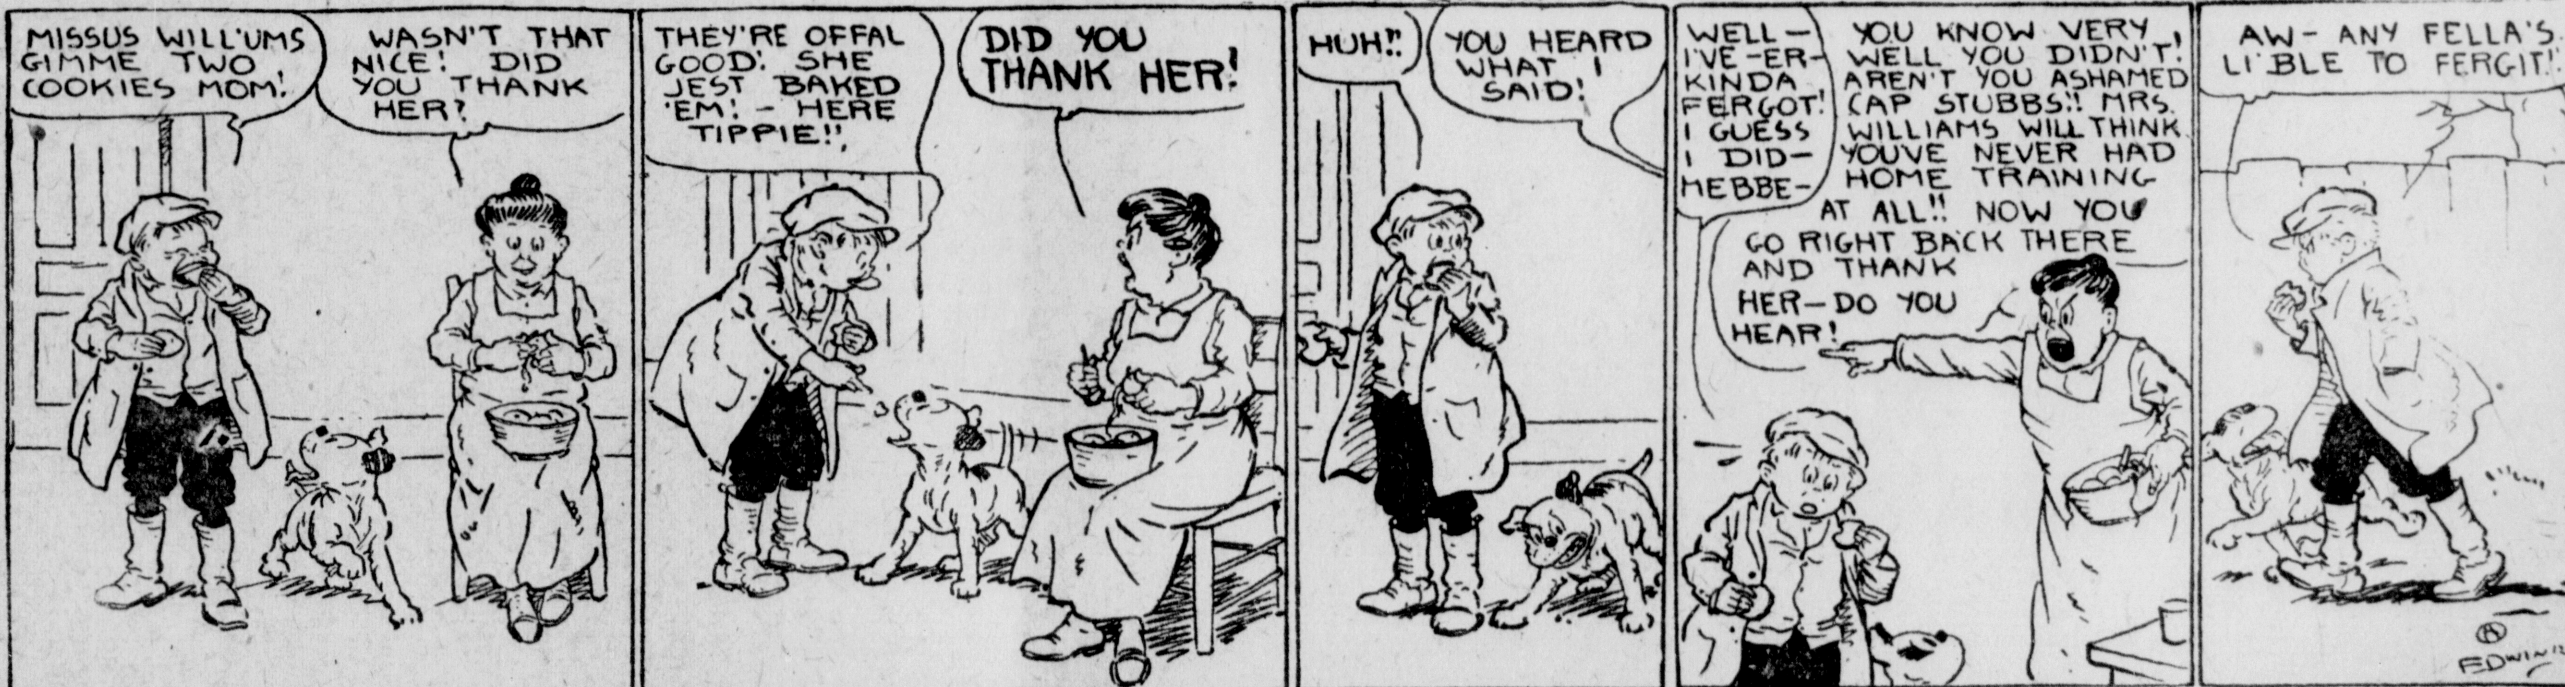

It's the right pose. It's the right view. And the enthusiastic photographer is about to preserve it for posterity or for Mitzi's friends at least. The jumper frock with the collar and tie of the same material gives an idea of sports wear and the smartness with which Mitzi wears it. Perhaps she'll give this to Bill.

Quite demure, she is. It's the collar that achieves the effect aided and abetted by Mitzi's expression. The narrow turned up collar is relieved by a satin ribbon that ties with a bow and has long streamers. The cuffs likewise. Wonder would the Goofer like this picture?

This bateau neckline of Mitzi's evening dress is decorated with an orchid. The gown is of lace and has streamers from the shoulders of georgette. It's all very becoming to Mitzi. A profile view would perhaps be best. This picture seems to be for some one rather special. Who's? he, any way?

PROPOSED PARK STAMPED AS BIG OPPORTUNITY BY KI-RO SPEAKERS

"The home cannot solve the problem of the teen age child,—it is a matter of community interest and importance," was the statement of W. G. Robinson, Jackson, Mich., district representative of the National Recreation Association, who delivered the main address of the evening at the joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

The joint meeting was held to give impetus to the plans of the Xenia Recreation Association for a community park in the Dodds Addition, in the tract donated to the city by P. H. Flynn of the Xenia Shoe Manufacturing Company.

"The amount of community interest in the young people of the city determines either a Boy Scout Troop or an alley gang, a crap game or tennis, a supervised dance or a trip to a roadhouse," was the statement of Mr. Robinson.

"The teen age child makes no distinction in his form of entertainment. He takes what the community gives or makes his own pleasures."

"The small city has an advantage for the young children but for the teen age boy or girl, it is as bad as the cosmopolitan center," the speaker declared.

He urged the park sponsors not to forget adult recreation in their plans for the park. "For the child, play is growth, and to the adult it is recreation," he said.

He said the outstanding need of organized activity was leadership, and as an illustration cited Ben Piers, community recreation director of Dayton, and former Xenian. "The difference between unorganized and organized recreation is that it is easy for the unorganized group of young people to form their own methods of enjoyment, whether of benefit or not. Matching pennies or shooting crap does not need organization," Mr. Robinson said, "but a game of baseball must have a certain number of men, organized with the proper equipment. The things worth while take organization," he said.

"Play is the common denominator of community life, which brings all classes and parties on a common plane," the speaker said. "After all the question is whether the community will play or crime bills, and if the play-bills are paid there will be no crime bills."

Mr. Robinson told what other towns and cities in the country the size of Xenia are doing in the recreation line. The recreation work, he said, takes the interest of the citizens out of their own family group and gives it to the benefit of all. He said that was the main joy of his work, and that all men should catch the vision of the community recreation plan.

He urged the club members to sponsor the park plan and interest the entire community in the idea, since the proposed plat was ideally situated for the park.

He cited Chicago, Youngstown, Lebanon, O., Albion, Mich., and other cities where community parks are flourishing. He said that in 1896 there were forty-one such parks in the country; 1913, 302 and in 1923, 680 parks. He said that $5,700,000 was spent in 1913 for park projects and in 1923, $14,000,000.

Mr. Robinson was introduced by E. M. Woodward, of the Xenia Recreation Association. After Mr. Robinson's talk, Mr. Woodward displayed a new design for the park, which will be on display in a local bank window. The local association is planning to raise $10,000 to carry out the park project.

The money will be used to build a lagoon, drain the swamp on the tract, level the ground, trim the trees, construct an indoor baseball diamond, make a wading pool, construct the tennis courts and grade walks and buy park benches.

Committees will be appointed by the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, to supervise the solicitation of the money. A meeting will be held March 17, when the drive will be launched.

Dr. B. R. McClellan gave a short talk and urged the clubmen to give their time and effort to "Xenia's opportunity."

The meeting opened with a selection by the Ki-Ro orchestra composed of Dr. A. B. Kester, Forest Hurley, Miss Helen Hurley and W. E. Currie. Club songs were sung and Dr. Kester and the Rev. W. H. Tilford led in several verses of "Howdydo."

City Auditor T. H. Zell gave the history of the proposed park, in a brief talk. He said that civic bodies had discussed a park for several years, but the donation of Mr. Flynn of the tract of land had clinched the idea. He urged the club members to "get behind" the project and instill general community interest.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

FARMER EULOGIZED BY EDUCATOR IN TALK AT RALLY TO LAUNCH FARM BUREAU DRIVE

"The membership campaign of the Greene County Farm Bureau means uplift of Greene County in a way that no other organization of the community can reach," declared Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, in the principal address of the County Rally held in connection with the Farm Bureau campaign at the assembly room of the Court House, Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. McChesney traced the part the American farmer has played in history of the United States, from the time the Huguenots came from France and settled in the Carolinas. He traced the rural pursuits of the English in Virginia, the Roman Catholics in Maryland, the Quakers in Pennsylvania, the Dutch in New York and the Puritans in New England.

"The first sons of toil in America were the farmers," declared the speaker. "They laid the foundation in a God-given country. They were first in patriotism and laid the democratic foundation in the thirteen colonies. Four out of the five men who drew up the Declaration of Independence were farmers," he said. Dr. McChesney spoke of Washington as a farmer, "as he lived and died on a farm, except for the years of his public service."

In eulogizing the American farmer, Dr. McChesney said "We owe our independence to the embattled farmers, and every farmer should be proud to be such."

He told how the farmers answered their country's call in 1812, 1861-1865 and in the World War, where he hoped "they gave the last blow to European tyranny."

The speaker also traced the part of the farmer in public life and gave the names of the large number of Presidents of the United States who came from the farm, even to Calvin Coolidge. He spoke of the importance of the farmer along other legislative lines and declared that the farmer was the only class directly represented in the government.

He urged re-forestation, as one of the pursuits of the farmer in government. "The farmers are first in character building as they established religion when this country was first founded and all of the settlers of this country believed in God."

"They then established the schools to train the heart, mind and souls of the coming generations. As farmers of today, have we lived up to the example of our forefathers in moral teaching of our children?" he asked.

"Boys and girls should be trained in the vision of God to safeguard the interests of this country. This rests with the farmer and all classes. We must train our children to know the benefits of the farm, its advantages, and uplifting if we do not want the foreigner to usurp our rural communities," he declared.

The rally program was presided over by W. B. Bryson, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau and Campaign chairman. He presented the strong arguments that are to be followed by membership solicitors, that of the accomplishments of the organization. He stressed the growth of the county farm bureau among marketing and co-operative lines.

W. W. Anderson, county publicity chairman of the campaign, outlined the plans for the drive from the publicity standpoint. "Organization and cooperation are the key-words of the time and play an important part in this drive," he said.

He told of the work outlined for the seven weeks of the campaign. Three weeks of this period have already been covered, and the remaining time will be spent in soliciting and winding up the plans.

Township rallies and "pop" meetings will be staged throughout the county and the workers will be given every preparation to make a thorough canvass, Mr. Anderson announced.

"The Farm Bureau stands for co-operation and 95 per cent of the leadership in Greene County extension work is furnished by the organization," declared County Agent Ford S. Prince, in a short talk. "We need more leaders, more than we need money," he said.

"The Farm Bureau probably means more to the farm woman than it does to the man," was the statement of Mrs. N. J. Kuriger, Bath Township. She made her point on the theory that the organization by introducing the better methods, saves money for the farmer which in turn helps the woman of the farm and that all projects encouraged by the Farm Bureau were for the betterment of the home.

E. C. Anstett, of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, who is working with local Farm Bureau officials in staging the drive reviewed the recent accomplishments of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and the local organization. "Our aim is to simplify and better living conditions on the farm," he said. "We want to make the farm home more attractive and obtain better marketing and shipping facilities."

"The farmers are striving today for the same thing as the laboring and business men of the city, are, that of making better homes and communities and bettering American business standards. We are accomplishing our purpose and if we want to keep the American farm American, we must pull together."

He explained the continuous membership contract which will be offered Greene County farmers in the drive. "The Farm Bureau has a record to be proud of and every farmer should be interested in the welfare of his own business," was his closing statement.

A club demonstration was staged by the Misses Louise Thomas and Katherine Conklin on the Busy Bee Sewing Club of Caesar Creek Township under the direction of Mrs. R. B. Mc

Kay. This club won first prize at the Greene County Farm last year and second honors at the Ohio State Fair, for the completeness of its work.

The program closed with an open discussion with two-minute talks by prominent farmers. Music was furnished interspersing the program by the Grange orchestra.

THE Ford car has remained the undisputed leader for value in the motoring world.

There are certain fundamental reasons why this is true. It is a car, properly designed and staunchly constructed, having a motor which has proved itself reliable, long-lived and economical.

It is adequately serviced by an organization reaching to every community and neighborhood.

These combine to give the Ford car the highest resale value in proportion to list price.

And as production volume of the Ford has grown the purchase price has been steadily reduced.

NEW EXPRESS RATES NOW EFFECTIVE ARE LOWER THAN BEFORE

Changes in express rates and charges ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective March 1st, will result in many economies for shippers, according to Agent L. L. Jordan.

New express rates go into effect throughout the United States, Mr. Jordan said, after a careful study of the new tariff placed on file at his office recently. Practically every basic rate per 100 pounds has been changed and the State Commission has authorized their application to intrastate rates applying on business handled within the state.

While there are some increases in rates, applying particularly in the eastern territory, according to Mr. Jordan, generally speaking the changes are downward and the lower rates will prevail in the greater part of the country. The most marked reductions are in the West and the South, thus enabling shippers to reduce their transportation costs substantially.

Mr. Jordan has prepared the following rate comparison with the old from this city to other important points throughout the country.

TO	New Rate	Old Rate
Los Angeles	$10.25	$12.68
Miami, Fla.	$5.40	$6.10
Cincinnati, O.	$1.15	$1.25
Columbus, O.	$1.15	$1.25
New York, N. Y.	$3.40	$3.11

Mr. Jordan advises shippers to investigate the new rates and will be glad to give any information on the subject at his command.

BRINGING UP FATHER

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA LELAND had a misunderstanding with her husband, JIM LELAND, due to his mother's interference in their affairs. Jim goes to Honolulu, taking his mother with him. Cynthia accepts the attentions of

NOEL GARDNER, and through him buys some stock which Madame Leland has thought worthless, for the purchase of which she had held Cynthia responsible. Cynthia makes several friends outside the set in which her sister-in-law,

LOUELLA and her husband, Stanley, move. Among them is

CECILE MALCOLM, who openly avows her affection for Noel.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXVIII—POLITE BLACKMAIL

CYNTHIA was dressing the next morning when her mail was brought to her. She looked through the pile of letters and glanced through a copy of this gossip weekly paper, but had never paid much attention to it.

Within was a piece of paper and a letter. The former evidently was a proof of a page from the next issue of the paper, with a line drawn in blue pencil around one of the items of news.

"Those who are in the know are predicting that before long a charming bride who came to town not long ago will become an equally charming divorcee," Cynthia read. "Her husband has seen fit to absent himself from home, giving business as an excuse, and taking his mother with him. The bride, far from being disconsolate, is enjoying life with a young man whose wife recently divorced him in Paris. She has closed her husband's home and taken the apartment formerly occupied by her new suitor and his wife, and it is freely predicted that by the end of the year she will become its permanent occupant, having changed her name and her husband in the interim."

Cynthia sank weakly into a chair, and read the hateful notice through again. It meant her, of course—there could be no doubt of that. She turned to the letter. An explanation was ready for her there. Most graciously she was informed that "Town Talk" was to issue a special anniversary number in a few weeks. And the editor hoped sincerely that she would feel inclined to contribute to its success by taking advertising space in this special number. If she so desired, her name need not appear in connection with the advertisement; she could merely take a page and send in her check, as an appreciation of the service which "Town Talk" had rendered her by entertaining her and her friends.

And no doubt she would be interested in the enclosed page from next week's issue of the magazine, which was enclosed.

Cynthia paced up and down the room, so angry that she could hardly think. It was blackmail! And yet what could she do? Her name was not mentioned, although of course everyone in town who knew her would at once realize that she was meant.

"I'll let them go ahead and print it—I won't be bullied by these thieves!" she exclaimed furiously. And yet was that the best thing to do? Wouldn't it be better to buy them off? Of course, she had done nothing wrong. Yet she had given these blackmailers all they needed for just such an attack as this one!

"If only Jim were here," she sighed. "He'd know how to handle them." But if Jim had been there the whole thing wouldn't have happened.

Of course, she might tell Noel Gardner about it. Perhaps that was the best thing to do. But no sooner had she decided on that course, than she refused to consider it. For she knew well enough what Gardner would do. He would go straight to the offices of "Town Talk" and horsewhip the editor—there could be no doubt of that. Then there would be trouble!

She sat down at last, too tired to walk up and down the room any longer, longing with all her heart for just one person to whom she could go with this new trouble. She felt hideously alone in the world.

It seemed to her that she had made a hopeless muddle of her life. She had married Jim with every expectation of being gloriously happy, wanting only to make him a good wife. And then things had been taken out of her hands. Somehow her mother-in-law had come between her and Jim, and now Jim and Madame Leland were off on the other side of the world, and she was here, with everyone gossiping about her and Noel Gardner.

"Oh, the only thing for me to do is to straighten things up the best I can and just get out of town," she cried at last. She jumped up and ran to her desk. The editor of "Town Talk" had given her the advertising rates of his magazine; a page, which he expected her to take, would be three hundred dollars. She hastily scribbled a check, enclosed it in his letter, and addressed an envelope to him.

Then she began to dress for the street. Calling Frances, she had her personal belongings packed. The maid looked at her in bewilderment when that order was given, but obediently got out Cynthia's traveling bags and set to work.

"Madam is going away?" she asked, after a few moments.

"Yes, for a visit. You can have a month's vacation, Frances, and I'll write you before I return."

To herself Cynthia said that she would never come back. And Frances, busily packing tiny lingerie, told herself the same thing.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)
